George Hansen, 87,
Plunges to Death
In Crowded StreetWIFE, LOVER FAIL TO KILL HUSBANDUnloved Mate Revives
After Hearing Woman Urge Man To Make Sure of Death.Madison, Wis., April 29.—(AP)—Mrs.
Rose Pope, 30, and Philip Polster, 26, principals in a Snyder-Gray murder, today pleaded guilty and were sentenced to serve 20 years each in the Wisconsin state prison. They were charged with assault with a heavy mallet with the intent to commit murder following an unsuccessful attack Saturday upon the woman's husband, John Pope, 38, a farmer living near here.Pope recovered consciousness in his farm yard while his wife and her companion had gone for an automobile to remove his body, and notified the authorities, who pieced together the sordid story from the confession of Mrs. Pope and Polster and Pope's story of lying partly unconscious after the attack and hearing his wife urge her companion to "give him one more to make sure."Mrs. Pope left her husband while they were in Madison Saturday, she told the authorities, met Polster, gave him the key to the Pope home in which he concealed himself to await the couple's return. Mrs. Pope said that when they arrived home she entered the house while Pope put away the automobile. Polster, armed with the wooden mallet, and a bottle of acid, was inside.According to the stories of the trial, Polster dashed the acid in Pope's face as the latter entered, then struck the blinded man over the head with the mallet.Mrs. Pope said Polster struck her husband twice more as he fell, then she said Polster dragged Pope into the farm yard, where he partly recovered consciousness to hear his wife urging Polster to strike again. Polster, Pope said, felt his pulse and decided he was still alive so he struck him again. Mrs. Pope asked Polster if her husband were dead and told him to hit the body a quarter of a mile away, where he notified the authorities.The couple left after saying they expected to obtain a car to dispose of his body. After a time he fully recovered consciousness and straggled to a store a quarter of a mile away, where he notified the authorities.The award was made for "distinguished service as the greatest law patron of chemistry" in the United States. This medal is awarded annually once in three years. There have been but two previous holders, the late Dr. Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins, and the late Edgar Fahs Smith, president of the University of Pennsylvania.The will bequeathed Dr. Adair's dental instruments and dental books to his father, R. B. Adair, and left the rest of the estate to his wife, Mrs.
Leonora Adair, with a provision that at her death the estate should go to the children. Since Mrs. Adair was killed in the same wreck with her husband, the children, Frances Aline Adair, Robin Adair, Jr., Junius Millard Adair, and Benjamin Victory Adair, share alike in the estate.The Trust Company of Georgia was nominated as executor of the will.Hurt Building Scene of Tragedy—Body Narrowly Misses Pedestrians as It Strikes Sidewalk.George J. Hansen, 87-year-old retired insurance agent and bottling plant operator, plunged to his death shortly before 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, when he fell to the sidewalk from a ninth-story window on the Edgewood avenue side of the Hurt building. As the aged man hurtled headfirst to the concrete walk, he narrowly missed striking Leonard Smith, of 1008 Highland view, and came only a few feet from several women who were walking along Edgewood avenue.The fatal plunge was started from the window of room 912, a vacant office, used by the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. and used as a committee room and rest room. A glass wind-deflector was found removed from the window sill and standing against the wall. There was a small box by the window and there were marks on the outer side of the window sill apparently made by the nails of a man's shoes, indicating that he had climbed into the window and hurled himself to the street below.The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of J. Austin Dillon, where Coroner Paul Donohoe will hold an inquest at 8:30 o'clock this morning.Employees at the building told of having seen Hansen about the halls of the building several times immediately before the tragedy. He was wandering aimlessly about and occasionally tried the doors of offices, they said. Frank Carroll, an employee, stated that about an hour before Hansen's death he saw the old man sitting on the sill of a corridor window looking out over the city.Carroll remarked at the time, "That old man will fall out if he doesn't watch out."Hansen had lived in Atlanta about 50 years. During the early years of his residence here, he was connected with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and became widely known in the city. He later organized a bottling works and was operating the plant for several years, sold his interest to a company which is now one of the largest in the south. Since that time, about 10 or 12 years ago, he was connected with a manufacturing chemist's business conducted at 457 Edgewood avenue.Since Mrs. Hansen's death, however, he had done little work, it was said.
He made his home at 287 Anne avenue. In addition to his son he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Anna Belle Trull.Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the chapel of the J. Austin Dillon Company by the Rev. W. Lee Cline.
Burial will be in West View cemtery.The belief was growing here today that the incident grew out of the war between the underworld element and the law enforcement branches of the county, and the names of a number of well-known bootleggers and gamblers were being linked with the whipping.
Bickers, some time before he was taken out, told of a visit to him by a leader of the Tampa underworld, who he said warned him to lay off of investigations he was making, saying that if he did not that some one in St. Petersburg was planning to get him.The Evening Independent, commenting editorially on what it characterized as "St. Petersburg's shame," said "the deed was the inevitable result of lawlessness which has been permitted in the city . . . and that it is the fruit of the spirit which has invited at it if it is not actually encouraged, gambling and bootlegging."

ing on was an effort to remove Sherlowing receipt of threats against his Federal Building.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, April 29.—Twenty bids submitted by ten Atlanta property owners or agents were opened by the treasury department today in response to the advertisement for a site for section of the new federal office building authorized for the city.
The bids ranged from $2,701,000 to $157,500, the price asked, respectively, for two entire city blocks which were proposed.After formal opening of the bids, which was witnessed by a number of Atlanta property owners and agents, officials of the department announced that a site inspector would be sent to the city within the course of the next three weeks for the purpose of investigating the various offerings. It was stated that the treasury representative will be expected to spend some time in Atlanta before filing a report on the situation, while a period of perhaps three months may elapse before a contract of purchase is signed.The highest bid in the lot of 20 received by the department was presented by the Atlanta Trust Company, as agents. It offered to sell the government the entire block bounded by Fourth, Hunter, Spring and Alabama streets, at the $2,701,000 figure giv-

FLOGGED LAWYER

James P. Bickers, 54-year-old lawyer, who was abducted by five armed men Sunday afternoon and returned to a hospital here after he had been severely flogged, may not leave Florida tomorrow as he promised his abductors.The kidnapping of Bickers is a felony under the Florida laws, and he is charged that his abductors took $2-000 in currency from him, which also would constitute a felony.It is expected that Bickers will be held as a material witness until the case is cleared up, and will either be kept under guard or required to furnish a heavy bond that he will appear at any hearing or trial which may result.A wave of indignation swept over the city today as a result of the abduction and beating administered to the attorney. The governors of the chamber of commerce were planning to call a mass meeting to be held tomorrow at which a memorial will be prepared asking the legislature to appropriate sufficient funds to wipe out organized crime, not only in St.
Petersburg, but all Florida.

Named To Select Postmasters HereBody Appointed by Poston Georgia Office Applicants Today.At the request of Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown a group of prominent republicans of Georgia will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of Lindsey Hopkins in the Hans-Howell building to pass on the applications of several hundred Georgians for various positions in the postal service.In verifying a report of the meeting Mr. Hopkins, who will act as chairman, admitted that the group of state republicans, himself and seven others, had been requested by Postmaster-General Brown to assist him in making recommendations on the applicants and had consented to do so.Others who will attend the meeting, it is learned, are: I. L. Fetter, of Savannah; H. O. Lovorn, of Carrollton;

E. A. Henry, of Augusta; John
D. Taylor, of Summerville; G. C.
Deke, of Milledgeville; W. A. Carlisle, of Milledgeville, and I. C. Davis, of Macon.The members of the group already have signified their acceptance of the request of Mr. Brown and have forwarded the acceptances to Washington, Mr. Hopkins said. The chairman of the group said that all of its members were merely acting for the good of the party and called attention to the fact that none of them was an official holder of an office under the government.Except to say that the group would give consideration to the successors of a long line of postmasters whose terms have expired or are about to expire, Mr. Hopkins declined to discuss what would be taken up at today's meeting."I cannot anticipate in any way just what action will be taken," Mr.
Hopkins said in discussing the gathering.MANN GEORGIA LEADERS

HELP FUND VOTED
BY LOWER HOUSESenate Expected To Act
Today—Red Cross Gives
$25,000—Former Bulloch
Citizens To Aid.Steps for relief of the numerous sufferers from the ravages of the series of tornadoes which swept south central Georgia last week were taken Monday in Washington, Atlanta and other points.Acting on the request of Representative Larsen, Georgia, the lower house of congress unanimously made available a fund of approximately $2,000,000 to be used to aid farmers in the storm-torn sections in Georgia and Carolina. The senate is expected to take similar action today on an identical measure offered by Senator George, of Georgia.Messages received in Atlanta and in Washington by Red Cross officials from workers in the field described the situation as worse than previously reported and emphasized the need of funds. The national organization has donated the sum of $25,000 to this work.In Atlanta, William Glenn, chairman of the disaster relief committee of the Red Cross, received a message from James I. Fieser, acting chairman of the national organization, stressing the importance of immediate aid. Announc-ment also was made in Atlanta Monday that former citizens of Bulloch county, which was hit by a tornado last week, are raising a fund which they hope will total $500 before the week is over.FUND FOR SUFFERERS IS VOTED BY HOUSE.Washington, April 29.—(By Staff Correspondent).—Without the formality of a record vote the lower house today gave its support to a resolution by Representative W. W.
Larsen, of Georgia, authorizing use of an unexpended balance of the Smith-Pulver $8,000,000 fund for the relief of Georgia and South Carolina farmers who were victims of the tornadoes last week.Similar action is expected in the upper chamber tomorrow on an identical measure offered today by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia.
The senate resolution was referred to the agricultural committee for action and a report is scheduled to be forwarded without delay.At the same time officials of the American Red Cross today said that the sum of $25,000 has been donated by the national organization towards a relief fund for sufferers from the Georgia-South Carolina torno. A statement from Red Cross headquarters here said:"Reports by telephone today from M. K. Heckford, director of disaster relief operations, who arrived in Dublin, Ga., from Washington to establish a relief headquarters, were that destruction had been complete in the stricken areas. The farmers had lost houses, barns, stock and crops of corn and tobacco. The Red Cross prepared immediately to distribute seed for new crops."Food and clothing had been issued, and tents set up. Red Cross nurses are established at Dublin as headquarters for relief, and five additional disaster relief workers were sent today to speed the relief work up.""Red Cross nurses were already in the field giving inoculations for the injured, with Miss Ruth Mettinger in charge."The Red Cross also prepared today to send assistance to Camden, S. C., where a tornado yesterday afternoon killed one person and injured 14 persons, who today were in the hospital.
J. M. Gettys, chairman of the Red Cross chapter, asked for help for those persons who lost their homes."RED CROSS OFFICIALS VISIT SWAINSBORO.Swainsboro, Ga., April 29.—(Special).—M. K. Heckford, national director of disaster relief, and John W.
Clark, assistant director, of the American Red Cross, Washington, visited Swainsboro this afternoon and met with the local chapter of the Red Cross. Committees were appointed and plans formulated by which the sufferers in the tornado might have temporary relief.While there were no deaths in this county, homes were destroyed and immediate need at this time is for shelter for the homeless, food for families and seed for replanting crops. The local committees of the Red Cross have this in charge and much relief will be accomplished in the next few days.TETANUS ANTITOXIN

Body Found in Woods.New York, April 29.—(AP)—The husband of Mrs. Dorothy Heinselman Peacor, 20, New York's third "torch singing" victim within a little more than a year, was arrested tonight as a material witness in connection with his wife's death.Earl Francis Peacor, 21, the husband from whom the girl had been separated because of incompatibility, was arrested in New York city on a warrant issued earlier in White Plains and taken to White Plains for questioning.The charred body of the girl was found late Saturday in a ravine near Scarsdale by a steam fitter's helper, who did not report it for six hours.
A small piece of the material from which her dress had been made led to identification of the body today by the girl's mother, Mrs. Alphonse A.
Heinselman, of Bronxville.Mrs. Heinselman, the mother, told the district attorney and the county medical examiner at White Plains that her daughter and Peacor were married in April, 1928, and that the young couple lived at the Heinselman home in Bronxville until last January. They lived in Mount Vernon only about three weeks and then separated, because, the mother said, they were incompatible and "Dorothy liked to do as she pleased."Dorothy obtained a position as a stenographer in New York city, the mother said. Mrs. Heinselman added that the last time she saw her daughter was the Saturday before Easter.
On the other hand, she said, she has seen her son-in-law quite frequently, the last time being today, when she saw him in Bronxville for a few minutes.The body of the victim was identified through the alertness of Mrs.
Edith Rees, a sister of the Heinselman family in Bronxville. She saw newspaper pictures of scraps of a dress found on the girl's body and read a description of the girl. She then persuaded Mrs. Heinselman to go to White Plains.Mrs. Heinselman identified stickles on the dress as her work. A mole on the right ankle also aided identification and a Mount Vernon dentist who had cared for Mrs. Peacor's teeth made it positive.The Weather

ONE ROBBERY NETS $47, SECOND POLICE BULLET

Body of Young Chicago Bandit Lies Unidentified in Morgue.

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—A young thief got $47 in a candy store holdup on Sixty-third street last night. An hour later when he looted the till of another sweetshop a few doors away he got three police bullets in his body. He was unidentified today at the morgue.

Qua Argiris, a cafe owner, saw the second robbery. He donned a heavy overcoat, stuffed his vest with newspapers as a breast-plate, and ran to the shop where the robber was taking money from the cash register.

He poked his head inside the door, shouted "drop that cash and that gun," and then slammed the door shut from the outside, holding it by the knob. The thief, after an effort to yank the door open, fired, wounding Argiris in the shoulder. He opened the door and ran down the street, in an effort to lose himself in the crowds around Cottage Grove avenue.

Policeman Sidney Block, off duty, saw him, called to him to halt and then opened fire. The robber was killed instantly.

He was the second man to be shot by a policeman over the week-end. Benny Butler, known to police as a mobster, was seriously wounded when he fled from a pistol duel with another man yesterday.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT BY ROADS DENIED

Interstate Commerce Body Is Upheld by Court Decision.

Richmond, Va., April 29.—(AP)—A special statutory court here today denied the petition of six trunk line railroads seeking an injunction to restrain the interstate commerce commission from requiring the roads to put in effect reduced refrigerator car charges on fruits, vegetables and other perishable products.

The decree was handed down in the United States district court by Circuit Court Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte, N. C.; District Judge D. Lawrence Gruber, of Norfolk, and District Judge Morris A. Soper, of Baltimore. After hearing argument and taking the case under advisement the court asked the interstate commerce commission to defer putting into effect the reduced rates, originally scheduled for May 1, until May 15.

The railroads sought to obtain from the court an interlocutory and permanent injunction restraining the enforcement of the commission's recent order reducing refrigerator charges. The interstate commerce commission has agreed to give a hearing to the carriers.

CONVICTED SHERIFF IN ALABAMA SENDS HIS RESIGNATION

Birmingham, Ala., April 29.—(AP)—Sheriff Curtis J. Falkner, one of nine Shelby county residents found guilty last week on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, today forwarded his resignation as sheriff to Governor Bibb Graves.

The resignation was sent to the governor by personal messenger.

The governor could not be reached for a statement tonight as to whether the resignation had been or would be accepted. Sheriff Falkner and his deputies will continue to hold office until the resignation has been accepted by the governor and a successor named.

The convicted group is to appear in federal court here Friday for sentence. Defense counsel has announced that a new trial will be asked, but no announcement has been made whether the plea will be made before or after sentence.

BANDITS HOLD UP WORKERS TO GET GREASE CUP HAUL

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—Holding three employees as prisoners and taking full possession of the plant of the Alomite Manufacturing Company early today, a band of 12 burglars hauled away two truck loads of Alomite grease cups for automobiles valued at $30,000 and $30,000.

The fittings taken by the robbers were made of brass and could be sold easily and quickly to filling stations and auto accessory dealers, officials of the Alomite company said.

They discounted the theory the robbers intended to melt the loot down and sell the brass because they left a large quantity of brass in the raw untouched.

SENATE TO RUSH VOTE ON FARM RELIEF BILL

Foes of Debiture Plan Expect to Kill It on First Vote.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Notice was given the senate today by Chairman McNary, of the agriculture committee, that a final vote on the farm relief bill would be sought before the week-end adjournment on Friday.

Before the final vote is reached, administration leaders will call for a decision on the export debenture section opposed by President Hoover and against which they claim to have a majority.

Advocates of the debenture plan today count on their efforts on its behalf, but a division of sentiment was noted among them over the amendment proposed by Senator Norris, republican, of Nebraska, to provide for a reduction of debenture rates whenever overproduction is forecast in a debentureable product.

Caraway Opposes.

The amendment was opposed on the floor by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, who with Senator Norris is among those leading the sentiment for the debenture section. The Arkansas senator contended that the amendment in effect penalized the farmer for putting to use the production advice issued in government bulletins.

The senate was able to devote little more than an hour to farm relief discussion today, but Senator McNary hoped to make better headway tomorrow and Wednesday so that a vote on the debenture section might be taken before Thursday.

The amendment of Senator Norris was offered by him in the hope of gaining support for the debenture section. It provides a graduated scale of reduced debenture rates when increased production is forecast, the reduction being in comparison with the rate of increase.

Senator Caraway described the amendment as a proposal in direct conflict with the policy of the agricultural department.

"We have been putting out bulletins telling the farmer how to better produce his crops," he said, "and now we turn around and tell him we will penalize him for using what he has learned."

Meeting Is Called.

Chairman McNary has called a meeting of his committee for tomorrow to decide whether the testimony of agricultural department experts regarding the debenture plan should be made public.

This testimony was understood to have favored the debenture plan and Senator McNary declared after the experts had been heard that their testimony was given before President Hoover had stated his opposition to the debenture plan.

Amendments aimed to give manufacturers of cotton goods the benefit of the export debenture plan and to provide for operation of Muscle Shoals were offered in the senate to the bill.

The amendment affecting the debenture plan was offered by Senator Tyson, democrat, Tennessee. It would provide that the benefits of the debenture plan be made to accrue to cotton manufactured goods, which Tyson said, would be discriminated against under the present wording of the bill.

Rate Is Explained.

"Under the bill on raw cotton exported the debenture rate would be two cents a pound," Tyson said, "but there is no provision for cotton products. Thus, American cotton goods manufactured would have to pay two cents a pound more for their product but would not get the benefit of this increased price when they exported their goods."

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, offered an amendment to the farm bill a proposal to authorize the secretary of war to execute a lease with the Nitrate Corporation and American Cyanamid Company for the Muscle Shoals property. He said he was in favor of the Norris resolution for government operation but inasmuch as this had failed, he desired to attach the leasing proposal to the bill instead of passage in the special session.

A bill to authorize the secretary of war to build a transmission line and dispose of power generated at Muscle Shoals was introduced by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee.

Coincident with the discussion of the Norris amendment, the National Grange, which has advocated the debenture plan for a number of years, sent to each member of the senate a letter advising that the organization is in favor of Senator Norris' proposal.

Grange Explanation.

"A check on over-production formed a part of the export debenture plan as first presented to congress by the grange," it said. The grange added that in presenting the export debenture plan it never "and any thought of asking for a subsidy or a bounty for agriculture."

"As we view it," said the communication, "the proposal contained in the bill now pending before the senate would simply give the export branches of our agriculture the benefit of one-half the protection which the tariff is supposed to give American producers."

In the meantime, the house decided to take up on Wednesday several other proposals its agriculture committee has approved to further the general program of farm relief. Four bills that were approved today were the Haugen measures to broaden the definition of oleomargarine and to make several changes in the federal warehouse act; the Ketchum bill to provide for assigning representatives of the department of agriculture abroad, and the Mapes bill, to prescribe minimum standards for canned farm products.

CONFEDERATE VET HELD AFTER RAID ON TWO CHARGES

Dothan, Ala., April 29.—(AP)—G. A. Bodiford, 91-year-old Confederate veteran, faces trial on charges of violating the prohibition law and carrying concealed weapons following a raid of his residence by county officers yesterday.

Sheriff Rollins had two loaded pistols and a half pint of whisky on his person when arrested. He posted bail of $500 for his release.

Sheriff Rollins said Mrs. Bodiford threatened him with a gun when he served the search warrant on her. The weapon was taken from her grasp and the search, which the officers claim netted three gallons of liquor, proceeded.

The aged woman's husband entered the house while the raid was in progress and accepted responsibility for the contraband, the officers said.

Experiments show that hen's eggs can be made to hatch two days earlier by irradiating the eggs with ultraviolet light.

Each long distance pair of copper telephone wires can transmit three conversations and one telegraph message.

Bill to Authorize Marking of Battle Site Is Proposed

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—A bill to authorize acquisition of the land and marking of the site of the battle of Franklin, Tenn., was introduced today by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee.

He also introduced a bill to authorize Tennessee to organize and maintain an observation squadron of the air corps as an independent unit of the national guard.

Other bills he introduced included measures providing for acquisition of land and erection of public buildings at Ripley, Dickson, Trenton, Milan, Manchester and Brownsville, Tenn.

AIR PASSENGER ROUTE TO FLORIDA PLANNED

Pittsairn May Inaugurate Services Soon After Planes Are Delivered.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29.—(Special)—While final plans are being made for erection of a $150,000 hangar air terminal at the Atlanta airport, Pittsairn officials are considering inauguration of a passenger plane from Atlanta to points in Florida.

The proposed passenger route would be an extension of the Greensboro-Spartanburg-Atlanta line, operation of which will start soon after the Pittsairn company obtains delivery of the Ford tri-motored passenger liners.

Verne Treat, veteran Pittsairn pilot, early in May will go to Detroit for the first of the Ford fleet, and his first move will be to pilot the big monoplane over the route and train other Pittsairn pilots in handling it. Actual operation of the Atlanta-Miami passenger line will depend on the demand for this form of transportation between Georgia and Florida.

The company's plans were thus outlined here today by Ralph S. Westing, traffic manager of the Pittsairn company. Mr. Westing said the company had held up its Atlanta improvement program until definite assurance was given that the city would actually undertake improvement of the airport.

Convinced now that the city will keep to its part of the bargain, the Pittsairn officials have definitely decided to move operating and service headquarters from Richmond, Va., to Atlanta.

The plans for the new hangar-administration building call for a structure 100 feet by 120 feet. Besides storage space for a fleet of ships the building will include a complete repair shop, a passenger waiting room and observation balcony, quarters for pilots and offices for line officials. The hangar will be headquarters for maintenance and repair of all New York-Miami mail planes as well as the Ford cabin monoplanes.

Clear, Balm Weather Due To Stay Today

Sunny skies and mild temperatures is the ideal weather promised Atlanta for today by C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the local weather bureau. A slight increase in temperature is expected.

No atmospheric conditions, which would change Monday's pleasantness, were perceptible, the weatherman explained, in forecasting a continuation.

of fair weather and a normal temperature range from 60 to 80 degrees for today throughout Atlanta and north Georgia.

Monday witnessed a low of 59 degrees registered by the mercury column, which rose to a maximum level of 75 degrees at the warmest part of the day.

The outlook for the week, according to the report from the weather bureau at Washington, D. C., is for mostly fair weather in the local area with the first part of the week cool and the later part witnessing normal temperatures.

THEATER OWNERS CONDEMN BLAME FOR CRIME WAVES

Little Rock, Ark., April 29.—(P)—The motion picture theater owners of Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi, in convention here today, condemned by resolution an article attributed to Roger W. Babson, international financial critic, in which the movies were given as the cause of crime waves.

The resolution, presented by Eli W. Collins, Jonesboro, Ark., former national president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association, declared that Mr. Babson's statement was "false and unfounded" and called upon him "in justice to a great industry, which is doing its full part to improve the thought of a great nation, to broaden to his followers a refutation of this damning indictment."

The belief prevails in the motion picture industry, the resolution continued, that "Mr. Babson spoke from ignorance or prejudice."

The theater owners passed the resolution unanimously after hearing read an article by Mr. Babson, in which the writer was quoted as saying "such studies as I have made lead directly to the movies as the cause of the crime waves of today."

R. F. Woodhull, New York, national president of the theater owners' organization, was present and the resolution was drawn up at his suggestion.

Air Field in Heart of City Proposed To Speed Service

Construction of a supplementary landing place for airplanes operating into and out of Atlanta, to provide faster service, Monday was urged by Lee Smith, president of the New York Building Owners and Managers Association and former president of the national association of the organization.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Smith at a luncheon of the Atlanta chapter, where he was entertained as the guest, would be to erect a concrete landing area over the railway tracks to the west of the Spring street viaduct, and would assure Atlanta's supremacy for all time to come in aviation circles of the south.

It would eliminate the necessity of passengers going to Candler field to board planes for other points and also would obviate the necessity of incoming passengers landing eight miles from the heart of the business district, according to Mr. Smith. At the same time mail would enjoy the same advantages which passenger traffic would obtain from the scheme and at least an hour would be saved in transmission, it was claimed.

Aviation Is Lauded.

"Aviation has been my hobby for the past few years, and it is the coming means of transportation," Mr. Smith said. "The only reason air travel has not kept abreast of airplane development is because the educational campaign which would 'sell' the service to Americans has lagged. Plane travel is just as safe, dependable and much faster than train or automobile. The machines now being manufactured are almost fool-proof."

"If Atlanta does provide the landing space, it would give her an advantage not enjoyed by any other city of the entire country. My suggestion is not that Candler field be abandoned. That would be foolish, because there would not be enough room to establish a flying field over the railway tracks. The planes would take on and dispose of their loads only at the space I have suggested. They then would park, be repaired and have adjustments made at the regular field. Railroads are becoming intensely interested in plane

BISHOP CANDLER TALKS AT SCHOOL DEDICATION

Dacula, Ga., April 29.—(Special)—Dedication exercises for the new quarter-million dollar North Druid Hills school, on Haygood drive, near Emory university, were held tonight at the school with Bishop Warren A. Candler and others as speakers.

Crowding the auditorium to capacity, residents of the section, in addition to the principal address of Bishop Candler, heard short talks by W. D. Thomson, chairman of the board of trustees of the school; Walter Candler and Fred Mason, members of the board.

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory university, complimented the scholastic work of the institution and the high character of its students. John N. Haddock, principal of the school, replied to Dr. Cox's address and W. N. Rainey, superintendent of schools of DeKalb county, also spoke. At the conclusion of the speeches, students of the school presented Mr.

Reo Gold Crown Six Cylinder Engine—Powering the New Speed Wagons —Delivers Performance, Flexibility, Speed and Economy Heretofore Unknown in 1½ to 3 Ton Haulage—With a Record of Sales Unprecedented In Its Field

TWO months ago Reo announced new Speed Wagons for 1½ to 3 ton hauling, powered by the Reo Gold Crown Engine, a development of 15 years' leadership in high speed, low upkeep, long lived transportation.

Due to revolutionary improvements offered, success was immediate, widespread and enormous. Sales probably without precedent in the truck industry. These new Speed Wagons have marked a new era in heavy duty hauling such as industry has never known before. An era of pleasure car performance, flexibility and economy in 1½ to 3 ton haulage. They meet the new Time Element which has entered the field of heavy and semi-heavy transportation.

Because they handle and perform in today's traffic like the newest pleasure car models, these Speed Wagons are setting new records in daily mileage output. Reducing time schedules, increasing number of calls, widening delivery radius.

But Reo engineers have achieved more than new power and performance in the Reo Gold Crown Engine. They have designed and built into it an utterly new conception of long, trouble-free life. They have largely eliminated vibration and friction, the two greatest foes of long life and economical motor operation. Reo uses chrome nickel alloy iron cylinder block—the longest wearing cylinder material known today.

Tests show that this newly developed alloy limits the settling of valve seats, caused by pounding, to one-seventh the amount of the conventional close grained iron.

They have developed high power at low engine speed. They have made possible even temperature in cylinders by an ingenious device in the water cooling system which allows only 5 degrees variation in temperature between cylinders. They have put in full pressure lubrication with a fitted oil pan that keeps oil at the most efficient temperature for proper lubrication. They have included 7-bearing crankshaft and many other features that result in amazing new power, flexibility, economy and long, trouble-free life.

It contains thirty class rooms and is said to provide ample facilities for the anticipated growth of the school in the near future. In the upper story of the building, which is two stories in height, is an auditorium capable of seating 600 persons.

Soldier's Death Clears Mitchell Murder Mystery

Albany, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)

Burial of a United States soldier at Charing a few days ago brought to an end a nine-year search for the slayer of Fate Shiver, in Mitchell county, near Pelham. The soldier had enlisted in the army in California, under the name of Cleveland H. McMillan, and who was killed in an automobile accident his body was shipped to Taylor county, where he had relatives. When the body reached there for burial the sheriff of Taylor county identified it as that of Arch Williamson, the slayer of Fate Shiver, who had been a fugitive from justice since 1920.

It was at a party given at the home of Hamp Shiver, about three miles from Pelham, in December, 1920, that Fate Shiver, a young man of that community, was killed in a scuffle with Arch Williamson. He received a bullet from a pistol and died a few days later.

Williamson fled, and was traced to California, where it was reported that he had joined the army, but the name under which he had enlisted was not learned, and he was never located until his body came back to Georgia under the name of Private Cleveland H. McMillan.

What promises to be a riot or a near riot is listed for Wednesday night at the Atlanta Woman's Club when a number of Atlanta's leading citizens put on "The Old Deestrick Skule" for the benefit of the Atlanta Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

No arrangements have been made for the police to attend, since Bayne Gibson, who will be the skulemaster, has given his word that he can handle the situation. The temporary Professor Gibson is a past potentate of the Shrine and has demonstrated through the control of several spirited Shrine conventions that he can rule by the rod.

The Old Deestrick Skule is a prime favorite with Atlanta audiences in many times in the past has been played here before packed houses. The U. D. C. committee in charge of arrangements reports, however, that it will produce several pupils the like of which has never before been seen in these parts.

The board is to be headed by Governor L. G. Hardman and will include Mayor I. N. Rogers, former Governor Clifford Walker, Colonel George Westmoreland, Dr. Thernwall Jacobs, Judge Alexander Stephens, Frederic J. Paxson, Dr. Willie A. Sutton, Dr. Claud N. Hatcher, Judge W. F. Rogers Stores Personnel Unaffected by Alliance

Rogers, Inc., operators of nearly 400 pure food stores in the southeast, has not passed out of the hands of those who have built it, according to Scott W. Allen, president of the big local chain.

In a telegraphic story appearing in Sunday's papers, it was announced that the Rogers company had been acquired by the National Food Products Corporation, which also controls the Fender Grocery company, of Norfolk.

"The wrong impression, no doubt, has been created by the stories printed in Sunday's papers," said Mr. Allen. "There has been no sale to anyone. The officers of our company, and practically all of our employees and others who held stock in Rogers, have exchanged this stock on an excellent financial basis for stock in the National Food Products Corporation."

"This latter corporation is a large holding company, interested in many large chains and pure food stores. It has been a big factor in building the Pender company, a chain grocery in Norfolk, Va., about the size of Rogers, which has used its connection with this national organization to expand and improve even faster than it could have done otherwise. Rogers, Inc., is simply following along the same lines."

While Rogers' success has been gratifying to the people active in the chain, it has not been to the detriment of the men who have built it thus far to carry it on to greater success—to grow and expand until we can serve every city in every state in the entire southeast. Our natural growth would not admit of our doing otherwise. Rogers would like. Hence we accepted the proffered assistance from a source that has proven its ability to do big things.

"The Pender company, of Norfolk, like ourselves now, is an ally of the national organization. Naturally, traveling along the same route, but not close enough to be considered competitors, there was a sort of mutual feeling one toward another. Members on each of our controlling boards are interlinked from each chain. There are stockholders from each chain in the other chain. Helpful ideas are exchanged, and we are soon to add to the Rogers forces Herbert Moore, as vice president and general manager in charge of retail stores. He has been very successful in the Pender company, and through his experience his connection with Rogers will be valuable to us as well as beneficial to our patrons."

"Rogers' headquarters—its big interests—will remain in Atlanta—a part of the commercial south, as it has always been. Our interests and investment in Atlanta—in fact in the southeast—are large. We do not intend to abandon or forsake any of them. We may add in fact, will add additional improvements to our business facilities—for that is the purpose of our latest financial move."

"The personnel of our organization will not be changed. The same men who have built Rogers to its present position will still be active in directing its affairs. I might also add that the same courteous service our patrons are receiving at a Rogers store still will be meted out to them by the same managers and the same sales forces."

"In a word, our new favorable financial deal simply gives to Rogers the ability to forge ahead—to carry out the ambitions of the southern men who have made the company and who expect to go right along with it to bigger and better things. Atlanta and the south will gain by our ability to do this."

DR. LACY IS CALLED BY CENTRAL CHURCH

Dr. Ben R. Lacy, Jr., has been called to serve as pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, it was announced Monday following a congregational meeting Sunday when the members of the church unanimously agreed to extend the call.

He served overseas during the war as a chaplain and received one citation for bravery in administering first aid under fire. He is a graduate of Davidson college; went from there to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar and later returned to enter the institution of which he is now president.

Dr. Lacy during his residence here was one of the most beloved pastors in the city.

MELLON OFFICE RIGHT CHALLENGED BY WALSH

Judiciary Committee Decision Causes Further Postponement of Matter.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The right of Andrew W. Mellon to continue as secretary of the treasury was challenged before the senate judiciary committee by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, but a decision by the committee on that question again was postponed.

Senator Walsh supported the report of Chairman Norris, which declares that as a stockholder in various concerns, Mr. Mellon is serving in violation of an old statute forbidding the secretary of the treasury to be interested, directly or indirectly, in carrying on trade or commerce.

The two-hour discussion today was led by Senator Walsh and revolved on the extent to which a stockholder may be considered interested in "carrying on" commerce. Walsh contended that Mr. Mellon had shown an interest in carrying on the business of the American Aluminum Company of America by his testimony in a law suit against the company.

The case referred to by Senator Walsh was one tried in 1925 in which a party charged the Aluminum Company with violation of the anti-trust law. The committee discussion again was held in executive session and was confined almost entirely to the question of law involved.

Since Senator Norris submitted his report, Senator Walsh has led discussion of it in committee. Friends of the secretary intend to reply but they are making no prediction as to the outcome of the committee's vote. A close division is apparent.

Regardless of the committee vote, it is certain that reports both for and against Mr. Mellon's right to continue at his post will be submitted to the senate. There is some doubt on what may ultimately occur if the senate should uphold Senator Norris, in view of the ruling by Attorney General Mitchell that Mr. Mellon is legally holding office.

YOUNG ROBBER GETS 15 YEARS AT HARD LABOR

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 29.—(AP)—Floyd Martin, youthful and dapper society bandit, recently found guilty of highway robbery of Mrs. Lucius Pond Ordway at her exclusive Palm Beach residence, was sentenced by Judge A. G. Hartridge, of criminal court, to serve 15 years at hard labor in the state penitentiary.

Before sentencing the youthful bandit to the maximum penalty allowed by state law, Judge Hartridge denied defense counsel's motion for a new trial.

Defense attorneys then announced that they would appeal the case to the supreme court.

A supersedeas bond of $10,000 was set by the court.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ordway, who are well known in Palm Beach, New York and St. Paul society circles, testified against the bandit at the trial and both stated that they were positive in their identification of Martin as the robber, who leisurely stripped Mrs. Ordway of valuable gems while holding the couple in their bedroom at the point of a gun. The robbery occurred on the morning of February 19.

REPARATION EXPERTS LOOKING TO YOUNG

American Only One With Power To Save Conference, Believed at Berlin.

Berlin, April 29.—(AP)—Cabinet discussions with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht here today were reported to have developed unanimity of opinion that Chairman Owen D. Young, of the international committee of experts for reparations was the only person now with power to save the conference.

It was said any compromise plan that he might suggest, if acceptance to the allied creditors, would not meet definite objection from Germany provided it was not so inflexible that with changed economic conditions there would be no possibility of revision.

In other words, even supposing Mr. Young should submit figures beyond what the German economic experts consider the present capacity of Germany to pay, this figure would not be accepted provided it could be revised if found impossible of fulfillment.

It was stated that the German authorities would loyally do everything in their power to extract the most possible plan from the committee, but that they would not be people for the reparations payments. If such measures, loyally undertaken, proved ineffective, the German government would want to be in position to demand revision without being charged with bad faith.

After the conference with the German cabinet it appeared certain that Dr. Schacht would continue at Paris to lead the German delegation. The meeting developed that the German government implicitly trusts the judgment of its experts on financial and economic matters and sees no reason to depart from its stand that these men must act without instructions and take no orders. If Dr. Schacht has caused offense by raising the Polish corridor and former colonial questions this was felt to be his personal affair.

MEXICAN DRINK, WIDELY CONSUMED, PUT UNDER TAX

Mexico City, April 29.—(AP)—The Mexican government has decreed a tax of 1 cent per liter on pulque, a drink much used by the Mexican laboring classes. The proceeds of the tax will go to a fund to fight tuberculosis.

Pulque is a product of the maguey plant, a kind of Mexican cacti. It costs from 12 to 15 centavos (6 to 7 cents) a liter, and enough is drunk every year to average one and one-quarter liters every day for every Mexican.

The pulque industry employs 1,500,000 people, or one-tenth the population of Mexico, and pays about 10,000,000 pesos, or $2,000,000, annually in taxes already.

A. C. L. MUST SHOW BASIS FOR CHARGE AGAINST JUDGE

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The Atlantic Coast Line has been told by the supreme court why proceedings it brought against Judge Sheppard, of the northern district of Florida, should not be dismissed.

The railroad contended that the federal district judge should have called a statutory three-judge court to enforce an order of the interstate commerce commission fixing rates on logs in Florida. After considering the railroad's complaint and the reply of Judge Sheppard the supreme court suggested that the case seemed moot with no live question awaiting decision.

The interstate commerce commission in February, 1929, issued an order which the federal district judge in northern Georgia construed as fixing rates only on logs shipped from Jacksonville, Gainesville, Burnetts Lake, High Springs and other points in northern Florida. The railroad asserted the order covered all logs shipped in Florida.

Judge Sheppard refused to call a statutory court to consider the matter on the ground that application should have been made to the federal district court in Georgia.

The collection, pronounced by critics to be the most nearly complete of its kind, is valued at more than $2,000,000.

HALTED AUTO, FIRES AT PASSING CAR, KILLS DOCTOR

Budapest, Hungary, April 29.—(AP)—Frank Hauer, young truckman's assistant, who resented replacement of horses and oxen by automobiles, was today declared responsible for the death of Dr. Emil Schreiner, former in the consular service, and for gravely wounding Mrs. Schreiner Saturday night.

Hauer hated automobiles with a personal hatred, fearing that the advent of motor transportation would cost him his job as a driver of horses, and decided to seek revenge against all motorists.

When Dr. Schreiner and his wife passed in their automobile through the village of Erdenberg Hauer fired several shots at the tires. He said that he had only intended to disable the car, but his shots were more deadly. Mrs. Schreiner, whose leg was amputated, continues in a critical condition.

HONORARY ORDER GIVEN GEN. BOOTH BY KING

"Companion of Honor" Conferred on Salvation Army Leader by Ruler.

London, April 29.—(AP)—King George today ordered conferred on General Bramwell Booth, deposed commander in chief of the Salvation Army, the order of "Companion of Honor." The order carries no title or precedence but ranks after the first class of the "Order of the British Empire."

Only a limited number of awards have been made, going to members of both sexes.

"The general naturally is pleased that the honor has been conferred," his secretary said this afternoon, "not so much for his own sake as for the sake of the army. He feels that a great many people in the army will regard it as a mark of esteem for the work of the Salvation Army."

The general passed a fair week-end, his secretary stated, and has been on the upgrade from his long illness for several days past.

General Higgins, present chief of the army, considered that the honor had been conferred not only on General Bramwell Booth, but also on the army "which he led successfully for years until his health broke down."

"The army is delighted that he should have this honor and that the king has recognized both him and his work," General Higgins concluded.

The new steel and concrete bridge will be formally dedicated on that day and an appropriate program carried out by the local legionnaires.

Stolen $600 Violin Is Pawned for $7; Owner Made Happy

Hot Springs, Ark., April 29.—(AP)—Since cave-men began to rub wood across strings—if cave-men did that sort of thing—violinists have loved their violins. B. M. Godwell, Chicago Civic Opera Company musician, is fond of his. It cost $600.

That is the point. That and a thief. The thief took the violin from Mr. Godwell's room here. Police found it in the care of a pawnbroker who had allowed just $7 for it.

Mr. Godwell called it:

"Now, that's luck. But it's an insult, too. But this one isn't my best one. I left it in Chicago. It cost $5,000. Maybe they have stolen that and sold it for $10."

TAXES DOUBLED Failure To Make Returns Doubles Assessment.

Albany, Ga., April 29.—(Special).—A state law which is to be enforced in Dougherty county this year for the first time is a statute which provides for a double assessment against taxpayers who fail to make their returns by May 1. Tax Receiver R. L. Barnes is authority for the statement that this law will be enforced this year.

In other words, tax valuations will be assessed 100 per cent higher than last year on property not returned by the owners on or before May 1. City tax returns must also be made by that date, the failure to make city returns on time will entail a penalty of only 15 per cent increase, which is provided by city ordinance.

Because He Loved His Home K. C. Lawyer Loses His Wife

Kansas City, Mo., April 29.—(United News).—Because he loved his home, his pipe and his radio better than "whoopie" parties, Jackson C. Stanton, prominent Kansas City lawyer, lost his wife.

And within 48 hours after the divorce decree had been granted he had received proposals from 16 women who wanted a home-loving husband.

Stanton was divorced Friday because he wished to stay at home nights. Friday night he was obliged to lay aside his pipe three times, turn from his radio to his telephone and listen to proposals.

The 44-year-old attorney had need of the diplomacy he had cultivated in handling divorce suits for men and women when the telephone continued to ring Saturday morning, six proposals being registered before he left for the office. Seven more were phoned him during the day.

"A one-woman man who stays home nights," came one voice, "gee, I've been looking for you all my life. When will you call?"

Stanton said he had not thought there were no many hold and outspoken women, despite his experience as an attorney in divorce.

CHARGE THAT N. Y. CITY HAS 32,000 RUM JOINTS

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Along with a charge that $20,000,000 graft was being paid annually for the protection of speakeasies in New York, plans were announced today for a campaign by a citizens' committee to exterminate the speakeasies, estimated as numbering 32,000.

The graft charge was made by Canon William S. Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation. In a letter to Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen he charged that the commission was granting "what amounts to a license to each of the 32,000 speakeasies in the city."

He said that if the state and city authorities did not close them President Hoover's law enforcement commission and citizens would force the issue.

The campaign against the speakeasies was announced by David Barnett, chairman of the Prohibition Educational League, who said that a constitutional campaign committee had been organized and that a public meeting would be held in Grand Central palace tomorrow night to take steps for the extermination of speakeasies.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO PASS ON VENDING CASE

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The supreme court has refused to pass on the right of county officials in South Carolina to prevent the operation of certain automatic vending machines.

It announced that Arthur W. Wilson in Abbeville county and the automatic Sales Company in Richland county, had failed to present cases within the jurisdiction of the court and that the appeal would be dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question.

When a nickel was dropped in the slot and a lever turned the machines delivered automatically chewing gum, after dinner mints or other package confections, and an amusement check. County officials contended the machines violated the law against operating vending machines in which there is an element of chance.

Wilson and the Automatic Sales Company asserted the package delivered by the machines was the full purchasing value of the nickel, and that the amusement check could only be used to see pictures exhibited by the machines, or cards purporting to be the fortune of the purchaser.

"My! you look lovely to-night"

SHE knew the compliment to be true—for the last plume had vanished.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you must realize that the logical cause may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth, velvety skin bespeaks loveliness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. Hope, joy, happiness, and even love, may depend on the possession of a clear, unblemished skin.

On the other hand—skin eruptions are outward evidences of the condition within. Authorities state it is an indication that the body's power of resistance to disease and infection is low. Meaning, that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to diseases.

BRITISH LEADER URGES FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

McDonald Renounces Private War and Blockade in Article.

London, April 29.—(P)—Complete renunciation of the right of private war and private blockade is advocated by the British labor party in a pamphlet on "Freedom of the seas," made public today. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the labor party, has written a foreword to the pamphlet describing the problem as mainly an Anglo-American one.

The pamphlet formulates the labor party doctrine on the question, in great measure basing it upon the second of President Wilson's famous 14 points, which said: "Freedom of navigation upon the seas outside of territorial waters, alike in peace and in war, except as the seas may be closed" in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants."

Declaring that the stand taken by both conservative and liberal governments in Great Britain has been directed toward the "power to keep open the paths of the oceans" the labor party says that this power also means "power to close the paths of the oceans" and that this power must of necessity be challenged by other great countries.

"If we tried today to use the weapon of blockade for our own private ends," the pamphlet says, "we should certainly have to reckon with a protest far more emphatic than any made in the last war. How emphatic and serious was the protest of America in the last war is as yet too little realized in this country. And that protest could now be made far more effective than in 1915."

"We hold that the development and the codification of international law should be made on the assumption that private war and private blockade, instead of being a legitimate exercise of national sovereignty, is an international crime," concluded the statement of policy.

FEDERALS CONTINUE ADVANCE IN SONORA

Almazan Passes Through Canyon Without Meeting Opposition.

Mexico City, April 29.—(United News).—The victorious advance of federal armies on rebels in the state of Sonora continued tonight. General Juan Almazan's advance guard having passed through El Pulpito canyon without meeting opposition, according to a government announcement.

The leading troops in Almazan's column are ready to attack Agua Prieta, the presidential palace was informed. Border reports to the government said rebel leaders were fleeing northward.

Newspaper dispatches told of a bandit attack on a freight train between Monteleon and Patti, in the state of Guadalupe but virtually no other resistance has been offered government forces recently. The bandits burned four cars of the train and forced the engineer to turn his locomotive free without a driver. The locomotive reached Yurupari without damage and soldiers there set out after the bandits.

Defeat "Cristos" Force.

A dispatch to La Prensa from Tepic, Nayarit, said loyalists had successfully resisted two attacks of 150 "Cristos" or religious rebels at Santa Maria Del Oro. No details were given.

General Almazan reported that rebels had retreated before his advance through Pulpito canyon. The insurgents fled during the fight without offering resistance, he said. Federal aviators continued to bomb rebel forces, he said. The road through the canyon was repaired as the federal troops advanced and General Almazan said he expected to move his main force forward immediately.

The government announced that General Abelardo Rodriguez had confirmed reports of the surrender of the rebel leader, General Miguel Guerrero.

General Flores.

General Rodriguez said the rebel chief had turned over 500 men, 1,000,000 cartridges, one cannon and 18 machine guns. General Fausto Topete, former governor of Sonora and a rebel leader, was reported fleeing towards Nogales, on the American border, with a small group of men.

The government reports apparently confirmed Minister War Calles' statement last night that the rebellion, in his opinion, was ended so far as any organized resistance was concerned.

Calles informed President Emilio Portes Gil that he had ordered a short rest for his northwestern troops. The remainder of his forces, he said, were continuing repair work on the big railway bridge at Corral, which was destroyed by rebels. Trains along done by rebels at that point will be used for federal troops.

Consular agents informed the government that General J. Gonzales Escobar, rebel chief, and former deputy Marique were fleeing on a one-car train towards Agua Prieta. The reports said it was believed they would take airplane there for Douglas, Ariz., or El Paso, to place themselves at the disposal of the United States officials.

TWO AMERICAN FLIERS
QUIT REBEL FORCES.

Nogales, Ariz., April 29.—(P)—Captain R. H. Polk and Patrick Murphy, American aviators flying for the Mexican rebel army, voluntarily crossed the international border into the United States at 3 p. m. today and surrendered to Collector of Customs Fred E. Edwards. They were immediately arrested by department of justice officials and charged with violation of the neutrality act.

REBEL LEADERS
READY FOR FLIGHT.

Nogales, Ariz., April 29.—(P)—Apparently confirming predictions that Mexican rebel leaders were about to abandon further military efforts in the northwest, revolutionary commanders continued to arrive at Nogales, Sonora, across the line from here, today.

General Hector Ignacio Almazan, rebel commander, applied at the United States immigration office here today for admittance. Almazan was exiled under orders of the Mexican government at the outbreak of the revolution and returned to Mexico to aid the rebel cause.

General Fausto Topete, commander of all rebels on the west coast, arrived at Nogales, Sonora, by automobile from Hermosillo, today, accompanied by Idolo Ibarra Soldner, attorney, and Dr. Francisco Arriola, chief surgeon of the rebel army. General Manuel Aguirre, an important rebel commander, had not arrived today but was expected soon by some.

General Gonzalo Escobar, commander-in-chief of the revolutionists, who has been in Nogales, Sonora, left hurriedly last night, supposedly for the eastern part of Sonora, where federal troops were said to have entered Sonora from Chihuahua today.

General Francisco Borquez, another rebel commander, headquarters in Mexican Nogales, said Escobar was expected to take personal command of rebel troops at Pulpito and Carretas passes. The report that rebel troops had fled from their positions there indicated that the federals might advance upon Agua Prieta.

Other reports said Escobar was prepared to take off by airplane shortly either for El Paso, Texas, or Douglas, Ariz., and surrender to United States immigration officials.

The Chinese government maintains a daily broadcasting service to send out news and educational and patriotic material.

A robin marked with a band was traced from Minnesota to Mexico, showing that its had flown more than 2,000 miles in 18 months.

HEFLIN SPEAKS HOUR ON UNNAMED SUBJECT

Had Announced Talk Would Be on "Roman Republic Conspiracy."

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP) Having announced previously that he would speak on the "Roman-republic conspiracy," Senator Hefflin, occupied the floor of the senate for more than an hour today but said nothing to indicate that he was speaking directly upon that subject.

Early during the discussion, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, offered to have the senate take a vote on Senator Hefflin's resolution asking the senate to condemn the treatment accorded him after making a Ku Klux Klan speech at Brockton, Mass. Senator Hefflin, however, said he wanted to talk on the resolution a little longer. A vote was later denied the Alabamian by Senator Watson.

Senator Hefflin waved a hand toward the republican side of the chamber and said "some of the newspaper boys say you are playing politics by opposing my resolution and that you want to undo some of the work you carried on in the last campaign."

The Alabamian declared he would never favor a Catholic for president because "One hundred per cent Catholics do not believe in the American constitution strictly construed."

He said Catholics did not believe in religious freedom because the church "prohibits the marriage of a Protestant and a Catholic unless a priest marries them and they promise to bring up their children in the Catholic faith."

"Think of it, senators," Hefflin shouted, "Children unborn must be brought up in the Catholic faith. Talk about religious freedom. Why, the Catholics recognize no freedom of religion."

"I am not opposed to religious freedom, as God is my judge. But my position is that Catholics should come in and observe our institutions and be like the rest of us."

Senator Hefflin chided Senator Borah for supporting a resolution at one time calling upon the secretary of state to "protect an American newspaperman who had been deprived of his rights by Great Britain in Egypt."

"And now the senator from Idaho is unwilling to condemn an attempt to injure and assassinate a United States senator," the Alabamian added.

Neither Senator Borah nor any other senator undertook a reply.

It is planned to start the non-stop flight from Washington or from some point in Florida within the next ten days. After reaching Santiago the plane will make a good-will flight, stopping at every country in South America. The Sikorski plane will be christened The Southern Star at Washington today before South American diplomats.

Base Junior Students Are Learning Government From Well-Known Figures

Students in civics and government classes at Bass Junior High school recently have been learning about government from men well qualified to instruct them and have been gaining this instruction in a very interesting way. Their "lecturers" have come in letters, written to the students by such well-known governmental figures as Chief Justice William Howard Taft, Vice President Charles Curtis and Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia.

H. O. Burgess, director of social science at the school, recently received the idea of writing to a number of local, state and national government officials asking that they write letters to the students telling something of their offices, the qualifications thereof, the way in which they were chosen, their duties and their salaries. The response was splendid. Mr. Burgess reports, and the students have taken to this rather novel method of instruction with enthusiasm.

FIVE MEN KILLED, THIRTY INJURED IN FACTORY BLAST

Prairie, Czechoslovakia, April 29.—(AP)—Five workmen were killed and 30 badly mangled today by a terrific explosion of nitroglycerine in the Bitt Munitions plant owned by the Czechoslovak Explosive and Ammunition Co. Ltd., at Fardubice, 60 miles from here.

Recurring detonations at brief intervals caused panic among the population. Two large buildings near the munitions works collapsed and windows for miles around were shattered. Two days of rain had been forecast and three injured by a minor explosion in the same plant. The damage caused by the blast was estimated at 4,000,000 kronas (about $120,000).

WEDDED COUPLE FACE CHARGES IN AUTO THEFT

Covington, Ky., April 29.—(AP)—Federal warrants against Mrs. Helen Young, 29, Louisville, recent bride of Elmer E. Young, 27, Memphis, Tenn., charging them with transporting a stolen automobile from Tennessee to Kentucky and forging a bill of sale in the later transfer of the car for two motor boats, were issued today by the local grand jury.

The warrants were to be served by a deputy federal marshal on the couple who are confined in jail at Newport. Mrs. Young was arrested Saturday just outside the Newport jail on a charge of attempting to aid a prisoner escape. The arrest was made after a prison trusty informed jail authorities that the woman had offered him $5 if he would smuggle a blackjack and a revolver to her husband.

The woman denied the charges.

W. T. BORN ACQUITTED

Defendant Charged With Robbery of Girl.

W. T. Born was acquitted Monday in Judge Luther Z. Rosser's division of municipal court on a hearing of a charge brought by Miss Lewell Cochran that Born had held her up and robbed her of $80 recently. The charge against Born was made by Miss Cochran Thursday after she saw him on a street car. Born denied the charge. Born produced witnesses in court to show that he was at home at the time the alleged holdup occurred. He was represented by Attorney Reuben Garland.

New Chicago Coroner Proves Real Menace to Gangland

CONTINUES PROBE OF ST. VALENTINE'S KILLING

BY ALLEN DALRYMPLE. Associated Press Staff-Writer. Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—A gangster nemesis has developed in a most unexpected quarter in Chicago—the coroner's office.

As the guiding spirit of that generally unimportant spot of officialdom, the busy, blood head of Dr. Hermann N. Bundesen has lifted the verdict of a coroner's jury from two-line obscurity to front page importance in newspapers.

He took time off today, although deep in the investigation of the St. Valentine's Day massacre of seven men, to tell how and why he does things.

"I can look every man in the eye," he said quietly in explaining the efficiency of his office in the few months of his service.

Efficient Office.
"No one has anything on me and my organization is conducted on lines of efficiency, without the interference of politics," Dr. Bundesen was elected last fall by the largest majority ever accorded a candidate in Cook county, running as a democrat, 100,000 votes ahead of President Hoover, who carried the county.

While health commissioner of Chicago from 1922 to 1927, he saved the lives of hundreds of babies each year by a systematic form of instruction for mothers. During that period he also wrote six books of health instruction, demanded and obtained pure milk for the city, lessened the smoke nuisance and gained for Chicago a place as the healthiest large city in the world.

Office Is Menace.
In an equally aggressive start as coroner, he has made his office a force to be reckoned with by the underworld.

Cook county coroner's juries in the past have been of doubtful origin, composed usually of street loafers anxious to earn $1,500. Dr. Bundesen, the jury was often impossible to recall. False names and addresses were not the exception.

When the seven gangsters were slain in the North Clark street garage St. Valentine's Day, Dr. Bundesen determined his course of procedure. The customary perfunctory coroner's jury verdict, "slain by persons unknown," was not rushed through in short order as usual.

Six outstanding citizens, leaders in business, were chosen for a jury, and an exhaustive examination of events surrounding the shooting began, with startling results.

Expert Is Called.
Long after police activity ceased to be important news the coroner's jury continued to report progress toward a promised ultimate solution. A firearms expert was brought from New York city, expense born by private contribution, and a systematic tracing of bullets made.

Even though the murderers may be found, the coroner's jury continued the work of the expert, Major Calvin Goddard, it seemed certain Chicago will have a new bureau to aid in running down criminals by tracing bullets and guns.

A young man, after a night of carets and liquor, was killed recently in an automobile accident. Dr. Bundesen's jury of college professors and psychologists disclosed things about the life of the younger generation that stirred the city and set it to correcting some of the evils.

Born in Germany. A little German boy, brought to this country to live for some time in an orphanage, Dr. Bundesen was graduated later at Northwestern University School of Medicine and was a postgraduate from the United States army medical school at Washington.

"Never step on another man's toes if you can step on firm ground without stepping on his toes," he said. "But if you can't step on firm ground without stepping on his toes then romp all over his feet if necessary—but always step on firm ground."

That seemed to explain much of his success. Ideas sort forth like sparks from an emery wheel as he talked and he put them as concisely as a highly-paid advertising writer weighing the worth of each word. He is an exponent of the apt phrase.

"You must drive home your ideas with people," explained Dr. Bundesen. "They won't read long, heavy medical discourses but they will understand and remember catch phrases that tell the story."

I tried for a long time to interest people in the use of cod liver oil, with little success, until I invented the slogan, 'cod liver oil is bottled sunshine.' Health habits.

"I have had good luck with these: 'Health habits are more easily caught than taught. Greatest health is greatest wealth. Shutting the windows keeps in the holiday man who steals your health. A breast-fed baby is the best fed baby. Eat right, sleep right, live right, think right and you will be right. Your belt line is your health line.'"

While Dr. Bundesen was health commissioner, he said, every mother received a pamphlet from his office each month advising her the progress her baby should have made the previous 30 days. He continues this mailing as health editor of the Chicago Daily News.

His books, published at no cost to the taxpayers because of the contributions of public-spirited citizens, were sent free to the mothers and were the result of years of study and the co-operation of the leading pediatricians of the country. Dr. Bundesen and his assistants read authorities in all languages, abstracting the articles and filing them. When the work was completed, Dr. Bundesen took the abstracts and reviewed the high spots of each subject in a few hundred words.

Manuscript Revised.
The manuscripts were then given his 10-year-old daughter to read and over everything she did not understand he placed a question mark. The process was repeated with women of general work at the public welfare stations and the manuscript then revised in even simpler language.

"A million and a half mothers in Chicago alone are rearing their children by those books," said Dr. Bundesen. "They are the world's best sellers. An insurance company printed millions of copies of 'Our Babies' for distribution and a chain store put out 3,000,000 at one time."

"Eighteen cities in the United States are distributing it through their public health departments. It has been translated into nearly every language."

"And how, doctor, did your activities happen to center on infant welfare?" he was asked.

"Get your pencil. I have six reasons."

And with parental pride he listed them: "Rega Jane, Herman, Jr., Russell, Laura Bell, Betty and Billy."

Woman in Mystery Shooting Has Good Chance of Recovery

Evansville, Ind., April 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine Green Conrad, prominent Evansville woman who seriously wounded herself Saturday morning after Miss Margaret Malley had been shot in the leg, was said today to have a good chance for recovery.

"I did it. I did it!" Mrs. Conrad, who is a divorcee, said when questioned. "I don't know why and I am sorry."

Prosecutor E. Menzies Lindsey declared a third woman was involved in the affair, which followed a party at the Malley home attended by former Lieutenant Governor F. Harold Van Orman, Mrs. Van Orman and Dr. John H. Hewitt, state senator from Terre Haute. Mrs. Van Orman is a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor.

The prosecutor withheld the name of the third woman he said was involved in the shooting. He said he had learned that jealousy was the motive and Mrs. Conrad about a month ago had broken Miss Malley's nose. Miss Malley in a statement after the shooting said she was injured when she sought to wrest gun from Mrs. Conrad, who was about to turn it on herself.

Mrs. Conrad and Miss Malley had been friends since childhood.

Opening of New Union Depot Predicted for November 15 If Road's Plans Approved

N., C. & St. L. Anxious To Have Station Completed Before Heavy Chicago-Florida Travel Begins.

Passenger trains will be running into the new Forsyth street Union station of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad and allied lines by November 15 under the present plans of the railroad company, providing the Georgia public service commission approves the petition filed Friday. It was learned Monday from authoritative sources. The railroad is seeking permission to build its new station on Forsyth street facing the present Forsyth street viaduct, at the northern end, and also has plans to erect a 17-story office and cold storage building on the present site of the station. In statements made to the state public service commission President J. B. Hill, of the railroad, has declared that it is the desire of his company to complete the new station before the heavy passenger traffic between Chicago and Florida starts in the fall. One reason why the road objected to the erection of a station this winter was because of its desire not to interfere with this traffic in the winter.

All track changes can be made and the station can be completed within six months, according to statements made to the service commission at recent hearings. At the new site proposed for the station it will not be necessary to lower the railroad tracks, as was required when the new viaducts were constructed over the tracks on Pryor street and Central avenue. The present track level can be used without any changes other than to rearrange the tracks, it was stated before the commission.

Application of the railroad for permission to erect its station on the new site will be heard by the state public service commission May 15. If authority is granted at this hearing and the railroad begins construction work soon thereafter it is certain the new station can be finished and be ready for use November 15, it was stated to the commission.

BOY CALMLY DENIES SLAYING OF FAMILY

Gastonia, N. C., April 29.—(P)—Under a grueling cross-examination Jacob Vanderburg, on trial for death of five members of his family, held steadfastly this afternoon to his denial of guilt.

For two hours Solicitor John G. Carpenter hurled staccato questions at the 17-year-old farm boy and the boy, accused of slaying his father, mother, brother and two sisters, replied in low monosyllables.

Their charred bodies were found December 28 in the burned ruins of the home near Gastonia.

"I'm going to ask you, Jake, if you didn't kill your mother, brother and sister, and then kill your other sister, Pauline, and your father when they returned from buying groceries," the solicitor shouted.

"No," said the defendant.

The defense counsel at 4:07 o'clock, shortly after the boy was recalled from the stand after more than four hours.

Solicitor Carpenter began his rebuttal testimony but had not completed it at adjournment.

The morning was devoted largely to Jacob's recital of incidents surrounding the tragedy and a denial of state testimony.

Shouted Questions.

The defense counsel had asked him during the morning if he killed the members of his family. He replied he had not. At intervals during the afternoon, Solicitor Carpenter shouted his accusing questions.

After he had made the inquiry about killing the two as they came in from the purchase of groceries, Solicitor Carpenter veered to other topics but suddenly returned. He had been questioning him about digging the cellar under the kitchen when he said:

"Didn't you put the bodies over the depression, thinking they would go down in it and never be found?"

"No," was the calm reply.

"You dug the cellar, didn't you?"

"All we children dug it."

The boy was evasive when the solicitor introduced a handful of letters. He could not identify the handwriting of any, he said, although the solicitor declared they were written by his mother, his sister and his brother. One was presented which had the signature "Jake" but the boy said he did not know whether it was his or not.

Questioned about the alleged blood on his hat and shoes, he said he did not remember anything about it. In the morning he had testified he pulled a tooth the night of the tragedy.

Approximately $4,000 Per Front Foot Paid for Property Between Harris and Baker Streets.

Sale of another parcel of Peachtree street property in the section noted for heavy real estate activity just north of the business hub was reported Monday, marking the largest transaction in the past few weeks. It brought approximately $4,000 per front foot.

The property, improved with a single-story commercial structure, was sold by Edward H. Inman to Mrs. Mary F. Rowland for a consideration understood to be approximately $200,000.

The parcel has a frontage of 50 feet on the east side of Peachtree street, between Harris and Baker streets. It extends back to a depth of 244 feet. The structure is occupied as a double store, known as 255-57, Peachtree street, N. E., and is leased by a tenant-at-will, it was stated.

Announcement of the transaction is expected to attract wide interest in real estate and investment circles due to substantial enhancement shown by the property during the short time it was in possession of Mr. Inman. The parcel represents the south half of the 100-foot Peachtree street property

Graduates of The Southern Shorthand and Business University Given High Praise By An Eight-Million-Dollar Corporation

POSITIONS OBTAINED FOR SOUTHERN GRADUATES

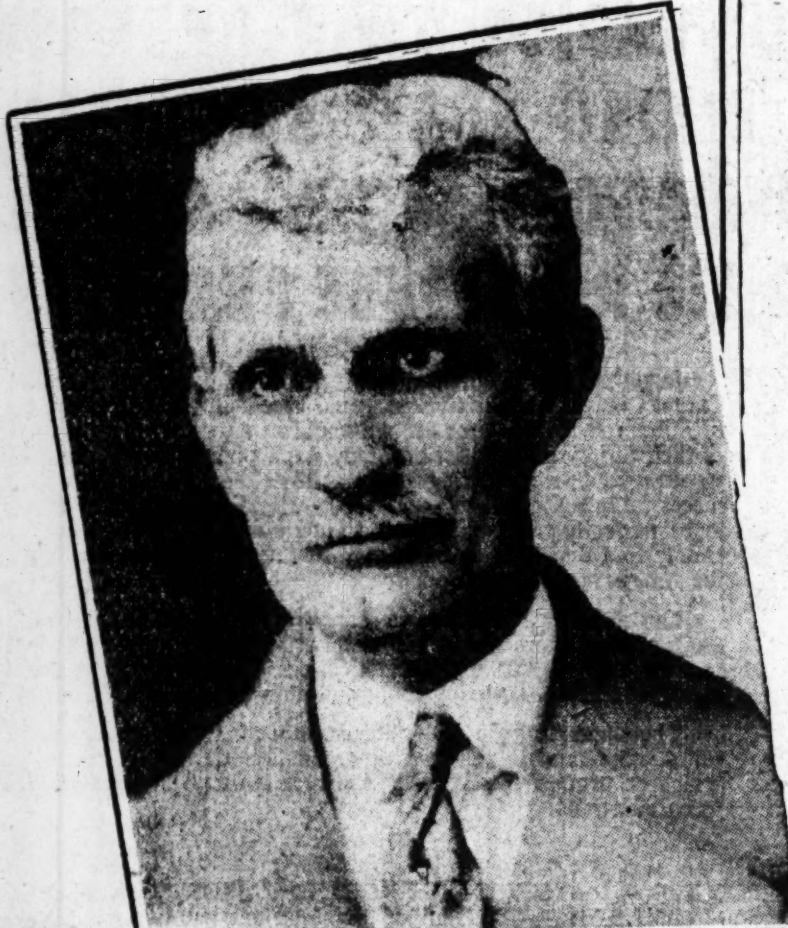

Many of the Southern students do not seek positions. They come for their education, knowing in advance what places they will occupy in the business field. They are sons and daughters of bankers, merchants, managers of insurance companies, railroads and other transportation companies, wholesalers, jobbers, etc., and expect to go into business with their relatives.

However, for the advantage of those who do want positions upon graduation the Southern maintains a free employment department. This department is operated efficiently and intelligently. It undertakes to put the graduate into the kind of position that he can fill best and where his opportunities for advancement will be good. This is a kind of service that business men appreciate and, as a result, the call for Southern graduates increases year after year. There is no charge for this service either to the employer or to the employee.

A census taken of the stenographers employed by the business firms in Atlanta disclosed the astounding fact that there are more stenographers at work who were trained by the Southern Business college than the combined number from all other business schools in this city.

One firm employs 21 of the Southern's stenographers and bookkeepers, which compose this firm's entire office force, and from one to a dozen are to be found in almost every bank, law office and business firm of any consequence in Atlanta.

There is no haphazard guesswork in placing students—they go to their positions just as represented, therefore, business men save time and worry by calling on the Southern's employment department for their help. Over 25,000 students have gone to positions. Phone Walnut 8834 for help.

"THE SOUTH'S LARGEST FURNITURE AND MUSIC STORES"

ATLANTA, GA.

April 15, 1929.

Mrs. T. B. Whitley, Instructor,
Southern Business College, Atlanta, Georgia.

My dear Mrs. Whitley:

During my recent State-wide campaign for the Sterchi organization which was conducted out of our Atlanta office, I found it very necessary to get additional office help and upon rather extensive investigation I was invariably informed that your institution would unquestionably supply the most skilled and well trained help possible to obtain in Atlanta.

In the dozen or more senior students sent by you, I wish to inform you that absolutely 100% of these young ladies showed to a marked degree the splendid training they had received in your institution and I was further impressed by their ability to take instructions and execute orders and your selectivity of students was unquestionably responsible for part of this.

Our Georgia Division Manager, Mr. W. M. Hicks, was as much impressed with the work of these young ladies as was the writer and it will perhaps be pleasing to you to know that many of these young ladies will eventually become connected with the Sterchi organization and I am sure that you will be further pleased to learn that two of the number you sent have already become permanent connected with this institution, holding responsible positions and made good from the very start. Assuring you that in the future when in need of properly trained assistants it will be my pleasure to remember your institution and your students.

Wishing you the success that both you and your students so much deserve and with kind personal regards, I beg to remain

Yours truly,

Advertising Manager Sterchi Organization.

AN EDUCATION BRINGS $24,000 GREATER INCOME

The uneducated person earns an average of $600 a year, and has a working period of 40 years. This means an earning ability of $24,000. The educated person earns an average of $1,200 a year for 40 years, or $48,000 in a lifetime.

The difference in the total earnings of the two classes is $24,000.

If the difference were measurable in money only, it would be worth while to be educated, but think of what it means in added capacity for enjoying life, in enlarged opportunities for culture, in better living conditions, in social standing, in the field of public service—in a thousand ways.

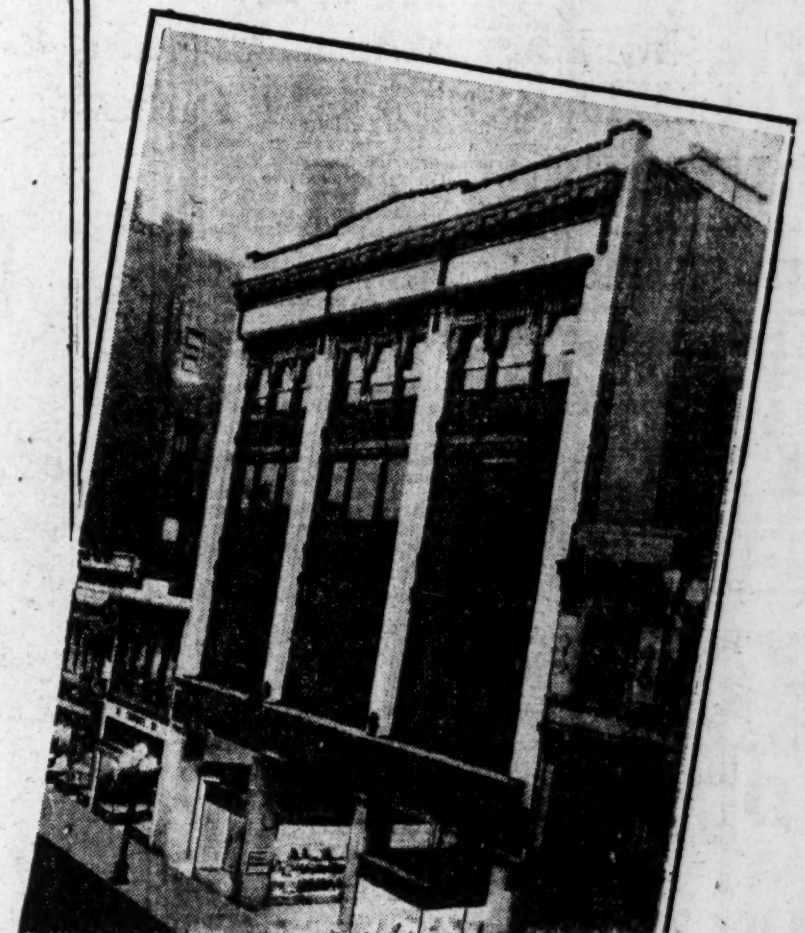

And see how little it costs!

For our typical educated boy or girl, let us start with the high school of four years, with a business course of a scholastic year, nine months added.

The full course in the Southern Shorthand & Business University runs from seven to nine months, making a total of about five years in both schools. If five years in school will make a difference in earning ability of $24,000, a year in school must be worth $4,800, and a month $480!

It is hardly probable that even the brightest, keenest boy or girl can make that much money any other way, is it? Figure this over for yourself—then try to decide whether you can afford to start your life-work handicapped by the lack of education—to start with a fixed charge of $24,000 levied against your earning power—the price of ignorance.

Of course there are many graduates of the Southern who are making from $5,000 to $10,000 a year, but the foregoing estimate of income is a conservative average.

One of the South's Greatest Furniture Corporations Lauds Exceptional Ability!

STUDENT'S SUCCESS DUE TO EFFICIENCY

Efficiency counts far more than anything else in the business world. When Jonathan Stewart was sent by the Employment Department of the Southern Shorthand and Business University to a bookkeeper's position with an important Atlanta firm at an initial salary of $100 a month, and was, within a comparatively short time, advanced to $275 per month, he realized that his thorough business training at the Southern was largely responsible for his rapid promotion in his first position—that efficiency proved a real benefactor.

Efficiency Brings Success. When Arthur Hagdaker came up from the Everglades of Florida, enrolled at the Southern for a complete Commercial Course, he had been informed that this school specialized in thoroughness. After completing his Commercial course, his great efficiency enabled him to command and receive that highest salary paid for clerical work, and, as a consequence, he accumulated a bank account and is now one of the largest and most prosperous lumber merchants in the State of Florida.

She Became efficient. When Miss Flora Walthall finished her Secretarial Course at the Southern, was sent to a position at an initial salary of less than a hundred dollars a month, it was because of her efficiency that her salary was soon increased to $200 a month, with a bonus of $50 per month additional.

He Succeeded Where Another Had Failed.

When Zachary P. Smith was given a week's try-out as a bookkeeper by a large firm that had given another young fellow, holding a diploma from another business college, a week's trial, the latter completely failing to make good, it was young Smith's efficiency in the science of bookkeeping, acquired at the Southern Business College, that enabled him to secure permanently the said position and hold it to the eminent satisfaction of the firm employing him. It was difficult for Mr. Smith to convince the firm that his thorough knowledge of accounting was that only which he had received at the SOUTHERN, having previously had no practical experience whatsoever.

A Growing Demand. There is a definite and ever-growing demand for Southern Shorthand and Business University trained men and women—and there are sound reasons for this fact. Executives have learned that the Southern's training rounds its graduates into alert, capable employees, and fits them admirably for positions of responsibility.

There are always positions awaiting the Southern's graduates—a happy feeling that inspires confidence from the start. Its courses of individualized training offers young people the shortest, consistent with thoroughness, easiest and most reasonable way to business success.

An Important Message. The Sterchi Furniture Company, with fifty-two stores and ten factories, represents an eight-million-dollar corporation—employing hundreds of men and women.

Highest standards of efficiency must be maintained by this big concern, and to this end a very careful selection of personnel is necessary.

The unsolicited letter presented above, received by the Southern Shorthand and Business University from the Sterchi Company, one of the south's greatest furniture corporations, contains a message of great importance to young people. It tells in no uncertain terms that the Southern's graduates are skilled and well trained.

Why the Southern. Some of the outstanding advantages of the Southern Shorthand and Business University may be summarized as follows:

Established 64 years and has increased in efficiency and popularity year by year.

Accredited by the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools, thereby insuring a high curriculum.

Indorsed and recommended by eighty out of every hundred business and professional men in Atlanta, to inquire for a good school.

A large and experienced faculty—three times as many teachers of shorthand and bookkeeping as are employed by any other business school in Atlanta, thereby enabling its pupils to finish more thoroughly and quickly.

Your Opportunity.

It's here—not yesterday or tomorrow—but today. Thousands in this city, state and elsewhere are ready now for something bigger and better. They are vitally interested in the Southern's practical, proved methods of business instruction. Make good the opportunity. Take the right step—now. Enroll at the efficient school—The Southern Shorthand and Business University, 86 Whitehall Street, S. W., Atlanta, Ga. Call or write for catalog.

THE SOUTHERN'S DEPT. OF BUSINESS ENGLISH

It is the aim of the Southern to teach thoroughly those things which are essential to the writing of grammatically correct English. It offers a practical review of English grammar, a very thorough course in punctuation and special instruction on the "Business Letter."

This course gives to the student who is lacking in previous education in this branch a chance to perfect his knowledge of English and prepare himself to be a competent correspondent. It offers to the high school and college graduate an opportunity to learn that English which will be needed in a business career.

IMPORTANT TO HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

Business Training Best After High School Education.

The Southern Shorthand and Business University congratulates you upon your good fortune in having had the opportunity of obtaining a high school education. It not only fits you for the social side of life, but also gives you that foundation upon which to make better preparation for a business career, or for any other profession that you may choose. No matter what might be your "calling," a few months spent in prosecuting the commercial subjects of bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, commercial law, penmanship, etc., would be of incalculable benefit to you in the performance of your chosen profession.

Business education, following a high school training, makes the difference between comfort and misery; it makes the difference between eminence and mediocrity; it makes the difference between a virile, brilliant life, and a listless, drab one; it makes the difference between an earning power of $3 a day and an earning power of $10,000 a year; it makes the difference between the restricted view of common labor and the boundless horizon of executive ability.

A large number of high school graduates from all over the south, enrolled for business courses at the Southern Shorthand and Business University last year after their schools closed, and most of them are already holding good positions in Atlanta and other cities.

Several hundred others will likewise begin courses of business training at the Southern this year after finishing high school. Many have already written for information and are planning to enroll. If you haven't yet received a catalog, write for one and make your reservation just as early as possible, as this year's enrollment is going to be the largest in the history of the Southern.

Visit, if possible the new home of the Southern at 86 Whitehall street, which is said to be the finest equipped business school in the entire south.

To others not having finished high school:

You, too, can prepare for business careers at the Southern, as the management has made special provision for those with a limited education. The school conducts a splendid English department, thus affording those of limited education the opportunity to master the business course while perfecting themselves in the English branches.

COMMERCIAL EDUCATION NOW NECESSARY ASSET

Years ago the commercial school was sometimes called a "clerk factory." It was supposed to be a school in which in three or four months a student could acquire enough knowledge of bookkeeping, penmanship, and arithmetic to serve as a clerk in a business office where he was supposed to complete his business education.

Today the training provided in the private business school does more than to fit the student for a vocation—it educates him.

There is just as much cultural value in the study of bookkeeping as there is in the study of geometry—just as much disciplinary value in the mastery of business letter writing as there is in the mastery of Latin.

The greatest occupation in the world today is business. It takes the time, the attention, and the talents of more people than any other calling with the possible exception of agriculture, and the 1920 census shows fifty-four million people living in the country.

The young man who studies the history of business, business organization, transportation, merchandising, commercial law, accounting and business English, adds just as much to his mental power as does the one who spends the same length of time on the "ologies and isophies" listed for the classical university course.

The young woman who studies shorthand and typewriting serves her best interests in more ways than one—she not only receives the right kind of discipline, but she also masters an art by which the door of Opportunity is opened.

Says None in United States Will Compare With the Southern

Mr. J. L. Nichols, representative of a large manufacturing concern, after a visit through the new Southern Business college, wrote an interesting letter to the management, from which the following is quoted:

"It was with great pleasure and astonishment a day or two ago that I was shown over your magnificent institution that had evolved from the little school of 25 years ago, and I can truthfully say that, in my travels all over the United States, having visited many institutions of like character none have come under my observation that will in any way compare with the Southern Shorthand and Business University of Atlanta."

FORMER SUPERINTENDENT ATLANTA PUBLIC SCHOOLS COMMENDS DISCIPLINE

Prof. W. M. Slaton, Deceased, Well-Known Throughout the South, Wrote Most Interestingly About the Southern.

I have had occasion to visit and study your business university. As one who had spent his life in educational work, I was delighted to note your splendid organization, its thoroughness, the ability of your faculty, the excellent discipline and the cheerful and enthusiastic spirit of your student body. Your large patronage demonstrates the popularity of your college.

I congratulate you and the state on your magnificent work.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM M. SLATON.

WORLD'S RECORD MADE AT THE SOUTHERN

Herman D. Strauss, of Albany, Ga., learned to write 125 words a minute in shorthand within a period of 30 days at the Southern Business College. This exceeds all records so far as statistics show. Of course this was a remarkable case, but it shows what is possible with a good pupil in a good school.

KOPPERS FAIL TO GAIN
GAS COMPANY CONTROL

Post says today that the Koppers Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., apparently failed in its attempt to acquire control of the Massachusetts Gas Company, the adventure has cost the Koppers nearly $200,000.

For a number of months, up to last Saturday morning, the Post says, there was an unlimited demand for the shares of the Massachusetts Gas Company on the Boston stock exchange at around $165 per share.

On Saturday, however, this bidding for the stock was suddenly stopped.

"It has been pretty well understood on the street that the big buying of the Koppers in recent months, which the Mellon interests controlled, had been a long time in the making, and that the Koppers were anxious to secure control of the gas business, which, with their present interests, would give them a monopoly of the gas business in the north Atlantic states. It is also well understood that the International Paper Company and the Koppers interests were very friendly to the Koppers interests."

The story says that the Koppers interests had been negotiating with the Massachusetts Gas Company for two years, but these were broken off last year to allow the reluctance of the latter to pass outside of the company.

Recently it was reported that a new financial deal was being worked between the Koppers and the Mellon interests, but the latter allegedly refused to do so.

The latter allegedly refused to do so, and the Koppers interests were forced to abandon the plan.

DAY IN FINANCE

By
R. L. BARNUM

New York, April 29.—Stocks opened weak and continued for the first hour and a quarter progressively weak, selling orders accumulating over Sunday on the 16 per cent rate touched for call money at the end of last week and the outlook for the money market this week with the end of the month tomorrow. Call money opened at 12 per cent, the highest renewal rate since April 2. At that time the rate was dropping from the 15 per cent renewal and 20 per cent high touched around the end of March on the heavy first quarter money market requirements. Thirty-day money advanced to 9 per cent.

Apparently traders in the stock market here and elsewhere throughout the country are realizing more and more that while 15 to 20 per cent call money may be a temporary month end condition, there is now high interest rates for money, resulting primarily from very active stock speculation here; also that first quarter corporation earnings now coming to hand represent business placed months ago and hence are not indicative of this year's high interest rates for money; also that this year's high interest rates for money are likely to show more or less in corporation earnings for the second and third quarter.

The feeling is growing in and out of Wall Street that high money cannot continue without either hurting general business which in time will be reflected in the stock market or else that high money will in itself check stock speculation. The belief was expressed here today that traders in the stock market who have a different viewpoint from the foregoing are likely to have their eyes opened on receiving the April statements from their brokers showing the interest rate charged for money loaned to carry stocks on margin.

Wall Street expects the steel corporation to report after the close of the stock market tomorrow high re-ord peace time net earnings for the first quarter of 1929 of between $42,000,000 and $45,000,000 against $37,000,000 for the remarkably good three months ending with December, 1928. The earnings of the last 1928 quarter included $6,000,000 taken into income as adjustments from year operations.

This means that net of between $42,000,000 and $45,000,000 for the March, 1929, quarter would compare with actual earnings of $31,000,000 for the December, 1928, quarter. If Wall Street expectations are realized, the steel corporation will report around $5.50 a share for the common stock for the first quarter of this year which would be not far from the year's $7 dividend requirements.

Dividend Advance. Kennebec which in next week the directors will meet and advance the annual dividend of $4 to $5 and possibly $6. Wall Street expects copper to become stabilized around 15 cents which would permit Kennebec to earn between $5 and $10 a share against $3 for 1928, with the average selling price of copper for the year 15 cents. Kennebec, it was pointed out today has on hand cash and copper equal to nearly $9 a share. Rumors were also heard of early merger developments with American Smelting and Refining Co. in the same hands. This coming Wednesday, May 1, the money market must adjust itself to $800,000,000 in cash and dividend payments, a record-breaking amount for this period, created partly by extra and increased dividend payments from the steel corporation and partly by the call money market here in Wall Street to meet May interest and dividend payments to the steel corporation and other high interest money. It is estimated that the steel corporation is financing with 7 per cent call money and 50 per cent time money. Owing to the interest rate charged for money loaned to carry stocks on margin.

Wall Street expects the steel corporation to report after the close of the stock market tomorrow high re-

Fall From Viaduct Has Sobering Effect On Inebriated Negro

If you are possessed of a durable frame and a high degree of intoxication and wish to be rid of the latter without damage to the former you might try falling backwards off the railing of the Whitehall-Peachtree viaduct. Arthur Price, young negro, of 46 Meldon avenue, tried it Monday night with marked success, according to Patrolman Wiley, stationed at Grady hospital.

A passerby noticed Price sitting very unsteadily upon the railing with his back to the tracks, some 30 feet below. The pedestrian told Patrolman Chatham, who came along about the matter and suggested that he rescue the boy. The officer proceeded in that direction and at his approach Price lost his nerve and toppled backwards. Patrolman Chatham rushed to the tracks. The somewhat dazed negro was rising to his feet, but the officer held him back to the hospital. There it not only was found unnecessary to give him treatment, but, according to the officer, Price was completely sobered, so much so that no case was booked against him.

RECOVERY IS SEEN FOR MAN STABBED DURING ROBBERY

Although attempts made Monday to obtain blood suitable for a transfusion for T. R. Wainwright, stabbing victim, were unsuccessful, Monday night expressed the belief that the young Haverhill man might recover without the aid of the blood operation. Several samples of blood were tested but none was found to match Wainwright's.

NOTED FLY'S PLAN FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

Non-Stop Trip To Be Made First Day of September, Newspaper Says.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The Washington Post says today that the internationally known aviator is preparing to begin a non-stop flight around the world from New York on the first clear day in September.

The names of only three aviators are given: Lieutenant Albert D. Hulise, former army and air mail pilot; Captain Harry W. Lyon, Jr., navigator on the trans-Pacific flight of the Southern Cross, and Lieutenant T. G. O'Connell, who was officer at Lakehurst. The commander, the newspaper said, will be a World War aviator with more than 5,000 flying hours to credit.

The make of the plane in which they intend to attempt the most ambitious flight ever undertaken was not learned, but it is described as being constructed partly of metal and partly of linen fabric, powered with five 420-horsepower engines. The aviators are equipped to take on fuel in flight, and capable of a maximum speed of 150 miles and hour and a cruising speed of 120 miles an hour.

Twenty-two stations are to be established along the 15,000-mile route, which will be used only in case of emergency. The Post says, and two of the five engines are to be held in reserve. They will be sufficient to bring the ship to land in case of emergency.

Carry 1,900 Gallons. The fuel tanks will have a maximum capacity of 1,900 gallons, but only about half that amount, the newspaper says, will be used.

New York to prevent overtaxing of the engines at the start. More fuel will be used in the flying over the ocean, and the supply will be replenished over Nova Scotia, under the plan, while a third refueling plane is in the air.

From Glasgow the route outlined by the aviators will lead to Nome, Alaska, south to the United States, and along a northern route back to New York. The aviators expect to be encountered at all.

The route is described as passing over countries containing about half the world's population, and the name of the plane will recognize the significance of that circumstance. It has been chosen by a Washington woman, the Post says, but her identity and the name she suggested have not been disclosed.

High Altitudes. Much of the flight, according to the Post's information, will be made at altitudes of 15,000 to 20,000 feet. An average speed of 130 miles an hour is contemplated, but little time allowed for sleeping or eating. The aviators expect to refuel operations. The cost of the flight is placed at approximately $850,000, and the backers of the plan are said to have underwritten it to the extent of $500,000.

Although most, if not all, of the aviators are or have been in government service, the newspaper says, the government itself will assist in the flight only through the furnishing of weather reports and other information.

The Post expects formal announcement of the plan to be made in several weeks. Preparations for the flight, it says, have been under way for months, but have been so thoroughly concealed that beyond obtaining information of the intention, it has been unable to get members of the party to discuss their plans.

Boys' High-U. S. B. Play Today in Prep Baseball Feature

Purple Seeking Revenge on Birds

Tech High Meets G. M. A., Decatur Plays East Point and Fulton Encounters Marist.

By Welch Jordan.

Featuring this afternoon's prep baseball card is the U. S. B.-Boys' High game on Henry Grady field at 3 o'clock. Should Boys' High win the Purple will crawl a notch nearer the Smithies, at present on top; and should the Bluebirds win they'll be in second place with Boys' High in third position.

T. H. S. ENTERS DIXIE MEET

Friday and Saturday.
Chattanooga Track Meet

Boys' H. H. G. M. A. Also in

Chattanooga, April 29.—(Special.) Tech High School of Atlanta will be entered in the annual Dixie track meet to be held here Friday and Saturday of this week, as defending champions of the prep track title that they captured last year. The Smithies have an excellent team again this year, and in spite of the many schools entered from all over Georgia and Tennessee they have very good prospects of capturing the Dixie diadem for the second time.

Two or three teams, Boys' High School and Georgia Military Academy, will be entered in the meet, and next to the Tech High team the Boys' High trackmen are conceded a chance of coping the title for the Atlanta school, although G. M. A. is putting forth a strong team this year as usual. The Smithies and Boys' High have been very evenly matched this year in all of the meets that they have entered with only a few points separating them, therefore, some more keen competition is to be expected in the meet at the University of Chattanooga stadium.

Among the other prominent teams entered are: Berry School, Rome, Ga.; Brewster Parker Institute, Mount Vernon, Ga.; Newman High, Newnan, Ga.; Castle Heights Military Academy, Lebanon, Tenn.; Marietta High, Lucy Hill Academy, Taylor Academy, City High of Chattanooga, and McCallie School, also of the Mountain City.

The meet is sponsored by the Chattanooga Prep School league, and the University of Chattanooga. In addition to the prep carnival, Olive Kruger, local track luminary, will race in three heats against Susanne Lucas, sensational high school sprinter of Chester, S. C., and holder of two world records in the sprints for girls.

The Atlanta track squads will train for Chattanooga Thursday afternoon or Thursday night, following a brief rest after the city prep meet for Atlanta schools, which is to be held there on Tuesday afternoon.

Routis Will Risk Title in August

New York, April 29.—(United States.)—Andre Routis, of France, world's featherweight champion, signed with Madison Square Garden today to meet the winner of the proposed Al Singer-Kid Chocolate match in a 125-pound title bout at Yankee stadium August 22.

Last half U. S. B. handed the Purple a 4-to-2 licking at Piedmont park, but this time the Boys' High team is conceded the advantage. Another pitchers' battle is expected, such as was the case in the first Bluebird-Hurricane tilt, with Tucker, U. S. B.'s star twirler, facing the big three mountsmen of Boys' High: Matthews, Melvin and Nash. All of these men have proven their worth on the field, and Tucker has won four and lost two, while Boys' High victories have been spread out among the three pitchers.

Matthews, Wynne, Malcolm and Hardin will probably lead the batting barrage of the Hurricane nine, while Theodosian, Carpenter, Nolan and Tucker should be the big guns for U. S. B.

The East Point-Decatur High game should prove interesting as both teams are in the lower half of the standings, and the Decatur nine is anxious to pull out of the hole that it has occupied all season, while Coach O'Rear's boys expect another win over the DeKalb team. Ellington or Stillwell will probably face Anderson, of Decatur, on the hill.

Fulton will meet Marist at Brinsford park in a game that has promise of being a good one. In spite of the fact that Marist is further down the ladder than Fulton, the Cadets, with Holt pitching, have a good chance of beating King, the county team's hurler. Fulton is conceded the edge over the cadet clan, and should they win it will elevate Fulton to a tie for second place in event of a defeat of Boys' High by U. S. B.

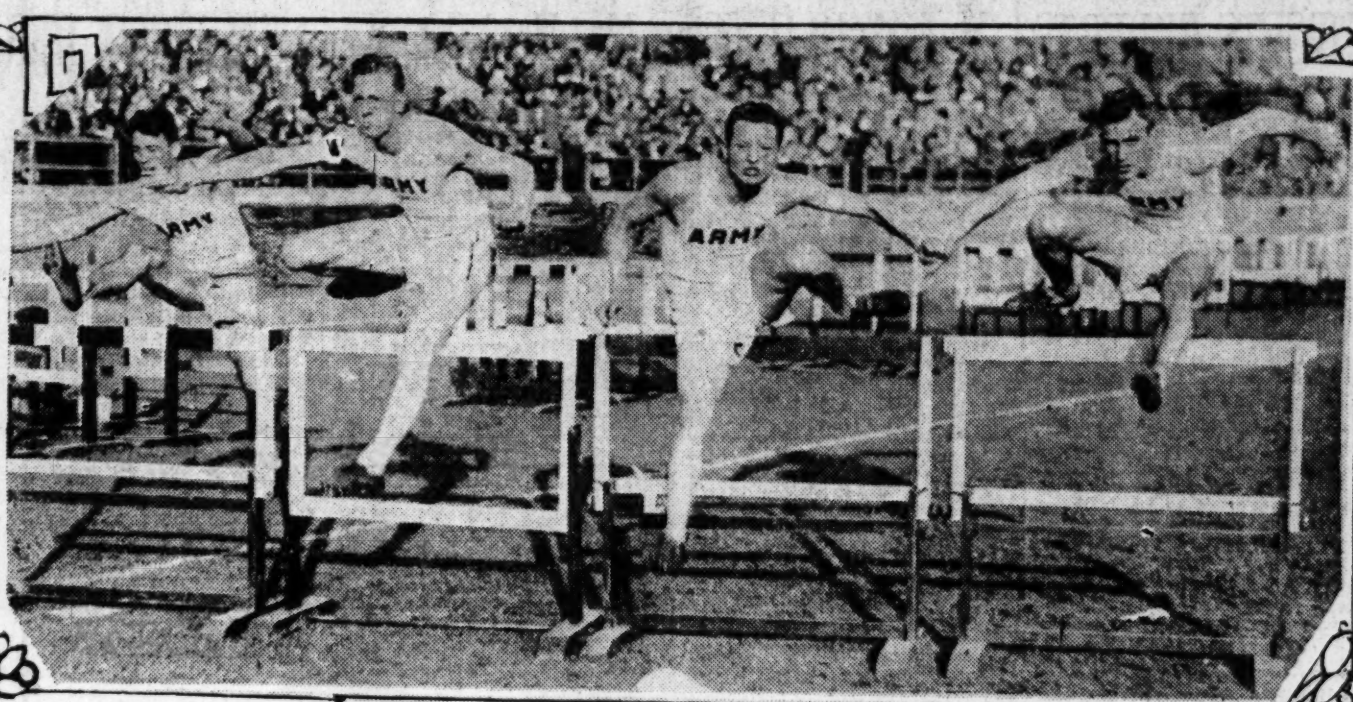

French Champ Fights in N. Y.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Andre Routis, French holder of the world's featherweight championship, has been signed to defend his title at the Madison Square Garden Corporation announced today.

His opponent is expected to be the winner of a proposed elimination match between Al Singer, of New York, and Kid Chocolate, the Cuban sensation. Singer is signed for this match, but Chocolate has not yet agreed to terms. Several promoters are understood to be after the Singer-Chocolate match.

Routis won the featherweight title from Tony Canzoneri at the Garden last September.

SPEED MERCHANTS AT PENN RELAYS

Track Records Near Breakage

New York, April 29.—Results in such meets as the Kansas, Drake and Pennsylvania relays and the dual meets on the Pacific coast would appear clearly to indicate that there are several world records due for improvement in the near future.

It seems that one can safely figure that the records for the 100 and 220 dashes are not safe from breakage; that the pole vault record is due to go, and that the discus record will be shattered. There are now four or five men in the country capable of shooting at the pole vault and discus marks and fans expect to see the vault record set several inches over 14 feet, and the discus skinned 160 feet.

Simpson and Bracey both have been clocked for the 100 in 9.2 seconds. Experts think Simpson might have been run in that time at Franklin on Saturday. He did run in 9.35 after running two previous heats and taking part in a relay race. When he ran a heat in 9.45 seconds he finished looking back, and when he ran a fifth of a second faster in the final, he had no close enough to push him. This Ohio star doesn't need any airplane to fly.

Iowa Drops 2nd To Illinois, 5-0

Urbana, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—Smart pitching by Len Bower and Heavy hitting by Don Brown and Tommy Rickman, a pinch hitter, netted Illinois its second Big Ten baseball victory over Iowa today. The score was 5 to 0.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Iowa 0 0 0 0 0—0 6 1 Illinois 5 0 0 0 0—5 6 1 Bower and Kuzinski.

Boys' High Favored In Cinder Meet

Purple Track Squad To Be Pushed by Tech High on Grant Field Today.

Tech High and Boys' High, ancient rivals, will clash for championship honors in city prep athletics, when the two schools meet in the city prep track meet to be held at Grant field this afternoon, beginning at 1:30 p. m. Undoubtedly these two teams are the overshadowing contenders for the prep crown, although G. M. A., Decatur High, East Point are entering teams in the competition.

These five schools comprise the entrants, who are putting in teams, but U. S. B., Fulton High and Marist are expected to enter some of their star track men, in an effort to glean a few points from the totals of the big contenders. Of the lesser entrants G. M. A. and Decatur will probably get most of the stray points, although each school is allowed to enter three men in each event, which will make it difficult for the minor cinder squads to win places.

Boys' High has a slight edge over all other teams, although the margin of victory is certain to be close and the relay race, the last event to be run, will probably decide the meet. The Purple Hurricane was victorious last year and is anxious to repeat, not having won any athletic titles this year except the golf championship.

BEST TEAM. Boys' High has what they consider their best team in several years. Captain Elliot is almost a sure first in the shot put and the discus throw; Kelly and Howard are fast in the sprints and Shalbaz is the foremost contender for honors in the hurdles, and the broad jump. Leven is the pole vaulter and field man. In fact the Purple is strong in all events, except the distance runs, being outclassed by the Tech High team.

The Smithies are entering Droopy Carnes, Pot Shields, Wade Grant, Leo Shillenger and Wall in the field events, while Carnes, Pinky Moore, Shields, Bullington, King, Powell and Landers are the outstanding track stars. Carnes, Shields and Grant are the high scorers for the Smithy team, Droopy jumping, shot putting and running in the 100 and the relay; Shields, a sure first in the pole vault and good on the dashes, and Grant, a broad jumper, 440 runner and relay man. Tech High is slightly handicapped by the loss of Hal Brady, who is not eligible to compete in the city prep meet, he being an excellent relay man and holds the prep record for the high and low hurdles.

Coach Deke, of G. M. A., is entering a team that has met with one victory and one defeat so far this season, having beaten the Russell High team and lost to Tech High and Boys' High in the district meet. Among the stars of the Cadet team are Norman Hackney, broad jumper; Joerg, hurdles, and Gantt, Whitehurst, Friedman, Shepard and Walker are the other leaders in both field and track events. The Cadets look like a fairly close third, Decatur High and East Point will both run the Cadets in close races for the minor honors and the lower positions are entirely doubtful, although it is practically certain that the two high schools, Tech and Boys', will win the first two places.

Two action scenes from the Penn relays show athletes who hold the spotlight in track sports just now. Above is the Army corps of hurdlers who after being beaten by Ohio State and Virginia in the trial heats came back to win in spectacular fashion in the finals. Below is George Simpson tin-canning his field in the 100-yard dash (his fourth race of the afternoon) when he equalled the world's record of 9.35 seconds.

Sporting Celebrities: No. 1—Babe Ruth.

Because this bloke can bust a ball And wallop it across some wall, Ten million mugs, or even more, Stand up and greet him with a roar.

And twice ten million kids would crack An arm, an ankle or back, Ten million upon him with a thrill To have him autograph a pill.

And yet perhaps you say to me A large gorilla with a tree Could send a baseball twice as hard And drive it farther from the yard.

Or you might whisper from your hive If Aristotle were alive, How many coves would follow HIM Or peddle out the Double Glim?

I have no answer—all I know They follow him where he might go, Because this bloke can bust a ball Or wallop it across some wall.

And maybe that's as good a reason As you or I will find this season.

Another Gehrig Angle.

There is another reason why Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, is on his way to challenge the final award as to the game's best first baseman. This has to do with a matter known as durability, which is a more important factor than you might imagine. Unless some untoward accident occurs while these lines are on the way to press, Gehrig is now on his way to his 600th consecutive ball game without any intermissions. No one would quite elevate him to the brilliancy of Hal Chase's first base play, but as a factor for winning ball games he is about as good as they manage to come. He is at least a good first baseman and one of the most productive of all run-getters. And he is always out there in a uniform, kicking in with his share of the job. In this day of fragile baseball bric-a-brac this is an important adjunct.

There are many who believe he will give Babe Ruth the chase of his career this season in the home run ward, and they won't be so far wrong. The years now, for a spell at least, will be adding to Gehrig's skill, and they can't do a lot of good for the more venerable Babe, who, however, is far from being any doddering wreck.

"President says crime menaces nation." Has he given no thought to virulence of the sliced drive and the stabbed putt?

Body Weight in Sport.

"I can't figure out just what you mean by body weight in different games," writes F. L. D. "I can't see why that won't take care of itself. At least it ought to."

Possibly it ought to, but it doesn't. Any number of young ball players who come along remain weak hitters because they know nothing of balance, of the correct method of shifting body weight with the swing. The matter of handling body weight is the bases of balance. It applies to almost every game. One of the main troubles with over 90 per cent of all golfers is an incorrect method of meeting this problem of balance, of weight shifting. At the first sign of tension this correct shifting is checked or broken up. The weight is not then allowed to move naturally, but more often than not works against the work of the hands and arms. Hitting power and body weight must work together as a team, not against each other. This sounds simple enough and yet the big majority of contestants—nearly all the average performers—work on the opposite side.

There can be no smoothness, no ease in a stroke, where this weight is thrown out of place or out of balance. If let alone, it might take care of itself, as it does when one walks, but it is seldom let alone.

College Baseball.

Whether college baseball is gaining or losing popularity might be a debatable matter. But that won't alter the fact that baseball is one of the best games any young fellow can play. It has quite enough exercise without the physical punishment that goes with football. It calls for speed, skill, quick thinking and team play. It isn't too wearing on the system, but is a fine conditioner. It is a game that ought to be encouraged at all schools and at all colleges and universities. It ways be a crime to let this game eventually pass out of school and college life, for it would be hard to find any game quite as good to take its place. The fact that it doesn't work up all the hysteria that accompanies football is in its favor. One short season of such emotional outbursts as football brings is quite long enough.

There has been a big rush to such games as golf, tennis, etc., but there is still room enough for a team game as good as baseball is.

Two Jobs.

A deal for the sale of New Haven club fell through and leaves George M. Weiss with two jobs, president of the Pros and general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Burning Down.

Athletic officials in New York high school circles have started a campaign to cut down the competition of athletes in indoor games. They contend the boys are burning themselves out in the winter.

U. S. Players Underestimated British Ryder Cup Squad

Horton Smith's Play Outstanding

Leo Diegel, Shooting a 65, Also Performed Brilliantly, Says Trumbull.

By Walter Trumbull.

(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)
New York, April 28.—British golfers were too good and the Ryder cup will spend a time in England. From a sporting angle, that is not a misfortune. We, in the United States, were a little too confident. We thought that all we had to do to win was to get the boys across the ocean. It develops that a bit of super golf also was necessary, and, as a team, the American players were not equal to the task.

Leo Diegel, shooting a 65, also performed brilliantly, says Trumbull. The result of the matches was not so surprising as the scores by which. Hogan, Farrell and Sarazen were beaten. At one time or another, it took each of these undoubted stars 40 strokes to play nine holes. That is an average of half a stroke a hole over what normally might be expected of any of them in a tight contest.

ONE VICTORY NEEDED.
Walter, Hogan and Gene certainly are par golfers, and par for that Moor-town course is 71. With the final score of the match 7 to 5, Hogan will be blamed for not picking a stronger team and, secondly, for not playing his men differently. One more victory for the United States would have tied the score.

But any such criticism is hindsight. Having taken 10 players across the water, Hogan thought that it was only fair to get all of them into the game. It also was much more fun and sometimes I think that professional golfers consider the fun of playing a game more than amateurs do.

The temporary loss of the Ryder cup is no vital matter. It surely will add interest to the next matches and I think will stimulate tournament golf in England. Moreover, it will make the boys over here a little more careful in their mental attitude toward skillful adversaries. Next time they will be ready to do their stuff. And next time Horton Smith will be even better than he is now. The 20-year-old youngster made a great showing.

CHANCE IN OPEN.
It is possible that the Hagenites may do pretty well in the British open. Their pride has fallen amid thorns and thistles and they will urgently desire a salvo for the sting.

Meanwhile, many athletes probably will be found for them in their defeat. It may be pointed out that competing in the south in winter and the north in summer they were accustomed to playing in light pants and silk shirts, while in England they had to make a choice between freezing and wearing flannels, sweaters, coats, mufflers and sweaters. What is the difference? If they were Eskimo suits, it was all the same. Their opponents played under the same conditions, and the weather didn't bother Diegel, Smith and Espinosa. Watson shot a good game. No, this sort of alibi won't do. The British were too good. We'll have to wait for another day. When it comes, may the better team win again.

Adams Kayoed.

Memphis, Tenn., April 29.—(AP)—Alex Simms, hard-hitting middleweight, from Cleveland, Ohio, cut short the boxing program here to night by knocking out Mickey Adams of St. Louis, in exactly 15 seconds. Simms' southward wallop landed squarely on Adams' chin just as the two reached the center of the ring. The match was scheduled for eight rounds.

BRAVES' SPURT UPSETS EXPERTS

Rated as Worst Club in League, Misfits Clamber to Top.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

New York, April 29.—(United Press.)—Memories of the 1914 baseball season are brought back by the present Boston Braves, who are out in front in the National league pennant race and fighting for all they're worth.

Right or ten games don't make a season, but if the Braves continue at the present rate of winning, it is a matter of every eight, which is unlikely but not too impossible to speculate on, they'll turn the calendar back 15 years.

On July 4, 1914, the Braves were on the bottom, but they came from nowhere to win the National league pennant and the world series from the Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games.

RATED AS WORST.
When the present season opened the Braves, made up of a weird mixture of base-balls, were generally rated as the worst club in the major leagues. With Judge Emil Fuchs, who has never played professional baseball, and other experiments being tried all along the line, the Braves looked every day like the losing candidates for the National league cellar.

New York fans who saw them take two hard-fought battles from the Giants last week, however, will tell the baseball world that the Braves are no set-ups for anybody's baseball team. The Braves beat the Giants, 4 to 2 and 5 to 4, and stopped two ninth-inning rallies, which no weak-headed tail-end club could possibly have succeeded.

Many elements are contributing to the flying start of the Braves, which certainly is the biggest surprise of the early days of the baseball season.

BOARD OF STRATEGY.
The Braves' board of strategy, composed of three heroes of the famous 1914 season—Eddie Collins, Hank Gowdy and Rabbit Maranville—has imbedded the 1929 team with some of the stuff which carried the 1914 team from the cellar to the championship.

Taking their lead from the aged but active Maranville, every player is apparently giving his greatest efforts to keep up this early season frenzy as long as possible. It is taken for granted that the Braves will crack wide open soon. Meanwhile, the Braves are taking nothing for granted and going right ahead playing winning baseball.

Rogers Hornsby's loss doesn't appear to have hurt the Braves. Quite the contrary, they are playing prominent parts in the Braves' spurt. Seibold beat the Giants in his first start, allowing but five hits. Jones has pitched two games, beating Brooklyn today, 5 to 2, and dropping an extraordinary game to Dazzy Vance in his first start. Maguire has strengthened the Braves' defense.

The second string of Maguire and Maranville is not far from the best in the league right now. Maranville hasn't made a bungle on 46 chances in seven games. Maguire has made only one error in 39 chances.

CAST-OFFS.
Harry Harper, discarded by the Cardinals, is off on a hitting streak and is batting .400 in the clean-up position. Heinie, another cast-off, is playing right field in place of the injured Larry Richebourg, the best outfielder on the club. Earl Clark is playing capably in center.

George Sisler, who was waived out of the Yankees, is back in the Braves' lineup, playing left field. Washington, and Lester Bell, the former Cardinal, round out the infield. Both are playing consistently.

Zach Taylor, the former Giant, and Pat Collins, Yankee cast-off, are the Braves' pitchers. Taylor knows the National league hitters as well as any catcher in the league.

With Seibold, Jones, Bob Smith, Elmer Hearn and Ed Kruit, who has a third string spot, the Braves' pitching is pitching winning baseball behind the stonewall defense the Braves have thrown up in the early games. Boston's collapse may not come quite as soon as expected.

ATHLETICS IMPROVED

Huggins to worry concerning his Yankees. They'll win plenty of baseball games. The point I wish to make is that if the Yankees can't beat the Athletics, they are going to have a much harder row to hoe.

There is another team in the American league which suffers from no undue modesty concerning its own worth and which is not checked by any mental hazard concerning the Yankees. The St. Louis Browns are convinced that they can beat anybody at any time. From Dan Howley to the bat boy, they radiate confidence. Strangely enough, it is the Athletics for whom the Browns have the most regard.

Detroit and Cleveland both have shown signs that they carry heavier artillery than they did last year. These teams are not going to be marks for anyone. And Washington is sure to increase its standing in the season progress. The Senators have a team of heavy hitters, fine fielders, and pretty good pitchers. They will get started before long.

New York, Chicago and St. Louis still appear to be the class of the National league, although the Boston Braves are attracting more attention than any other club. After all the kidding to which Judge Fuchs has been subjected for appointing an official manager and sitting on the bench, it would be a merry and Garretman joke on all concerned if the Braves emerged from their long sleep and showed startling activity. They have looked pretty good so far.

Crackers Keep Fighting.
Not once this season have the Crackers appeared as a nonchalant baseball club. They were not put in a slump by the three straight defeats at the hands of the Pelicans but jumped right back to take two in a row from the Bears. The Crackers keep hustling. At that means something.

With the new outfielder, promised by Spiller, in ranks; Zoeller back in the game; Kiefer in pitching form and with Rube Roberts giving evidence of having a great year ahead, the Crackers will be tougher when they return home than they have been all season.

Fans have every reason to be proud of this season's club and of Wilbur Wood, the manager, who has brought them along.

U. S. Ryder Cup Stars May Have Beaten Themselves—Will Improve in Open.

By Dick Hawkins.

British golf writers may do well to postpone hailing the "turning point in British golf" for a few days. In their joy over the victory of Great Britain's professionals in the Ryder cup matches they may be losing sight of the big prize to be played for next week at Muirfield.

They should recall last year when Archie Compston took Walter Hagen for a rough, tough bumpy ride only to see the Haig come back and the open cup back to the U. S. A. without so much as a "by-your-leave."

EARNED VICTORY.
The Britons won a clean-cut victory in the Ryder cup matches by playing better golf. They took the best America could offer and rubbed their noses in island soil but that was last week. The open is next week. In golf, this week is never next week.

Without taking anything from the British victory, let me attempt a psychological analysis of the situation in the Ryder cup matches.

The Americans took the field prize favorites. The first day they beat the Britons at their own game. Two ball foursomes are played very little in America and experts conceded the British a fair chance to top the point total at the end of the first day's play. They did nothing of the kind and the Americans naturally felt great confidence when they looked toward the morrow.

OVER-CONFIDENCE.
That confidence was fatal. And it was reflected just as one might expect it to be. Notice the scores. Which of the Americans were beaten? With the exception of Diegel the cream of the American team took the count.

Hagen took a 10-8 defeat from George Duncan. Compston took a 10-9 defeat from Walter Hagen. The supposedly weak sisters of the British team, gave Johnny Farrell, American open champion, a terrible drubbing, 8-6. Was there ever a clearer case of over-confidence? Smith was not sure of himself and he was not.

No such thing will exist in the British open. The Americans have learned a costly lesson just as Hagen learned one last year, his beating at the hands of Compston.

MENTAL COLLAPSE.
You will hear all manner of tales about the way the Americans break training regulations in foreign countries. You will hear this given as a reason for their collapse. The collapse at the Ryder cup matches, but the collapse was less physical than mental.

The British were fighting with their backs against the wall. They had nothing to lose and all to gain. The Americans, on the other hand, were playing for men in dangerous in that fix. The psychological situation will be reversed at the open. The Americans have boasted their supremacy on the links for many years. Ever since the days of the great Vardon, Ted Ray and other British golfers of olden days, they have held the lead rope. They must either win the British open or turn that rope over to the British for a year.

At Muirfield you will see a group of chastened American gentlemen at work seriously at a serious task.

Gavuzzi Adds To Bunion Lead

Springfield, Mo., April 29.—(AP)—Peter Gavuzzi, bearded Englishman, averaged nearly 10 miles an hour to lead C. C. Pyle's bunion derbyists into the thirtieth control point here this afternoon.

Gavuzzi's time of 4 hours 51 minutes and 10 seconds for the 41 miles from Conway, Mo., not only gave him the day's lap but strengthened his hold on first place as measured by elapsed time since the start from the Atlantic seaboard a month ago. Gavuzzi's elapsed time of 193:37:17 gives him an advantage of three hours and thirteen minutes over his nearest rival, John Salo, of Passaic, N. J., who was second in today's sprint under a broiling sun in 5:11:45.

Callaway Winner At Sea Island Beach
Sea Island Beach, Ga., April 29.—Cason J. Callaway, of Latrine, was winner of the 36-hole week-end tournament held here. Prizes for the tournament were awarded in the lounge of the Cloister hotel to Callaway, W. G. Grant, of Atlanta, and Duncan Strachan, of Savannah. The tournament was arranged especially for the delegates of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association convention, but was open to other visiting players and local golfers.

Play started Friday at the conclusion of the business sessions of the convention over the Sea Island Golf Club course. Strachan's score for the 36 holes was 157, winning the low medal trophy for him. Callaway had 172 and Grant 173 for first and second places in the blind bogey play.

Jim Thorpe, former Carlisle Indian athletic star, joined the troupe here today and will act as a member of the Pyle Cross Country Follies, presented at each of the control points.

Ed Gardner, Seattle actor, finished fifteenth today, the slowest he has been in finishing a day's lap since he started east from California last year in Pyle's first derby. Despite his poorest showing today, however, Gardner still ranks third in elapsed time.

Third place for today's run went to Herbert Heidemann, of New York, who was clocked in 5:20:50. Jesse Dalzell, running into his home town, was fourth, and was welcomed by shrieking fire sirens and cheering crowds. Gusto Unek, of Italy, was fifth, and San Richman, of New York, sixth.

SETTER HAS GREAT RECORD

Four Firsts

And she won that. Four starts and four firsts, including the national puppy stake. And Southern Ohio Club trial is always good, with a strong field in each class. It was really five starts and five wins, as she went out of her class to win the derby in the middle Tennessee trials.

I saw Lipstick put down in that first trial. It was at Lawrenceburg, Tenn., and the trials were held on a very hot day. She was in a class in which no hunting is allowed. The galley there has ridden up wild turkeys. She came out of the gate with her saddle in front of Pete Barnett. She was in the first brace and she found two hives and stood them. It was a grand sight to see her hunt. She had the merriest tail I ever saw. It was going at a great speed as she raced over that course. Trailing her remarkable speed and yet missing nothing. She had had but two weeks of training then, yet she obeyed the whistle and understood the waved handkerchief signals perfectly. The middle Tennessee trial is a fine one, but a small one, and Barnett entered her in the derby trial and she stood one level in that. That, with her speed and hunting, was enough to win.

New York Owned.
Pete's business is breeding them and lining them. He sold Lipstick after her second start. Pete never announced what he got but it was the highest price paid in years for a puppy. About $700 would be a guess. W. W. Cupper, of Birmingham, N. Y., bought her and she was registered in his large Grand Junction.

There is grand blood in her veins, royal blood. She is by Mr. Eugene out of Dot O'Sunnyside. She had three litter mates who are making good records also. She can be trained but they have to be born with the nose and the speed and the desire to win. Lipstick is probably the best known hander in the national, has Lipstick at his kennel at Hickory Valley, Tenn. She will be trained this summer and in September will be entered in the derby events. Lipstick was tipped as a probable champion last year when she won the trials at Lawrenceburg. She will go into the next season's trials one of the derby favorites.

Lipstick and her three litter mates survived a tough year for Pete Barnett. Quite a few of his dogs died that year after showing in the trials at Lawrenceburg. She will go into the next season's trials one of the derby favorites.

Another Dodo.
Tampa, Fla., April 29.—(AP)—Another name was added today to the long list of mole-men who members, D. B. Logan, merchant, playing the 197-yard 17th hole on the Palma Ceia course, landed his ball just short of the cup with a No. 3 iron. It obligingly rolled on in. This was the second as reported here in four days.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TO FIGHT HERE

Eddie Hanlon To Offer Show Next Week at Auditorium.

Eddie Hanlon, after several weeks' lay-off, comes forth with the announcement that he will present fans with another boxing show on May 7, at the city auditorium.

Hanlon, who has enjoyed much success in the promotional field here, is planning to arrange for his next show two good heavyweight bouts for a double windup, and three six-round scraps.

He has already matched two good fighters for one of his closing bouts. George (Pug) Avera will meet K. O. Smith in this scrap. Smith is somewhat of a knockout artist while Avera is a clever boxer and a hard puncher.

In the other bouts, Hanlon will match boys he knows the people like to see fight. Among these he is considering Young Jack Demsey, Marshall Cardwell, Young Ford and other boys who have performed in Atlanta rings and are liked by the public.

Pro Grid Game Bad, Warns 'Red' Grange

Man Who Made Success and Fortune Advises College Men To "Stay Out."

Philadelphia, April 29.—(United News.)—Red Grange, the famous "Galloping Ghost," who four years ago was the sensation of college football, warned the Temple university gridiron squad today to "stay out of the professional game."

"It's not all it's cracked up to be," said the former Illinois half-back, who made a small fortune on professional teams under the management wing of C. C. Pyle. "I was glad to get out, and now I'm going to stay out."

Chicago Is Defeated By Wisconsin, 5-1
Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—Wisconsin won its second straight Big Ten baseball game today, defeating Chicago, 5 to 1.

Theander, of the Badgers, pitched masterful ball, allowing the Maroons only three hits, while Hall, Wisconsin center fielder, led the attack with a home run, a double and two singles. It was the second three-hit game by Wisconsin. Farber holding Indiana to a like number of blows Sunday. The Badgers won that game, 5 to 1, also.

Victorian, Heavily-Played Favorite, Loses Dixie Handicap

Diavolo Finishes With Rush To Win

Lexington Horse Leads to Final Sixteenth, Wheatley Entry Winning by Nose.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Coming from behind in the stretch, Diavolo, four-year-old chestnut colt from the Wheatley stable, nosed out Victorian to win the $25,000 Dixie handicap as the spring racing season opened at Pimlico under ideal weather conditions today.

Say It Ain't So, Mr. U. S. L. T. A.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Bill Tilden, whose writings last summer caused his suspension from amateur play by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, now has been engaged to write for the U. S. L. T. A.'s own magazine, "Tennis."

Virginia, Vandy Net Teams Tie

Charlottesville, Va., April 29.—(AP)—University of Virginia and Vanderbilt university meeting at tennis here this afternoon played to a draw, each team taking two singles and one doubles match.

Alphonse Smith, Virginia's ace, was out of the game due to an operation he underwent two weeks ago. Smith, former national junior doubles champion, was to have been matched against Donald Cram, southern conference champion.

Cram easily defeated Morcroft in straight sets.

Results—Singles: Cram, Vanderbilt, defeated Morcroft, 6-3, 6-2.

Johns, Virginia, defeated Cunningham, 6-3, 6-1.

Taylor, Virginia, defeated Lowenstein, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Murphy, Vanderbilt, defeated Whitehead, 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles: Cram and Cunningham, Vanderbilt, defeated Wright and Taylor, 7-5, 6-2.

Whitehead and Johns, Virginia, defeated Lowenstein and Murphy, 5-6, 6-3.

Fast Boats. Outboard motorboat race officials boarded the New York Central train at Albany, after the racers were started, but were beaten to New York by the boats.

Seventeen other veteran thoroughbreds started in the rich Maryland turf event, but the race was strictly a Diavolo-Victorian affair, with the Wheatley silks flashing across the wire a nose in front of Victorian.

Victorian, winner of the Preakness last year and victor on his first time out this season at Havre de Grace, was the favorite.

With R. Workman up, the 1928 Preakness winner jumped, out in front at the rise of the barrier and seemed to be well on to his second victory of the current season as the field straightened out into the stretch.

But the gallant son of Whisk Broom II Verastous, which had scored an impressive victory last week at Jamaica, rushed up from seventh position to challenge the bay colt carrying the colors of the Silas Mason, of Lexington, Ky.

The two horses battled stride through the last sixteenth. With Jockey J. Mather urging him on, Diavolo made one last bid for victory and thrust his nose out in front as the two runners flashed under the wire.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was two minutes flat, and the winner paid $21.70 for each $2 mutual.

The victory was worth $27,600 to the owner of Diavolo, Trailing Victorian in third place was Display, owned by W. J. Salmon. Of the 19 horses named to start only Voltaire, which was out at Havre Saturday, was scratched.

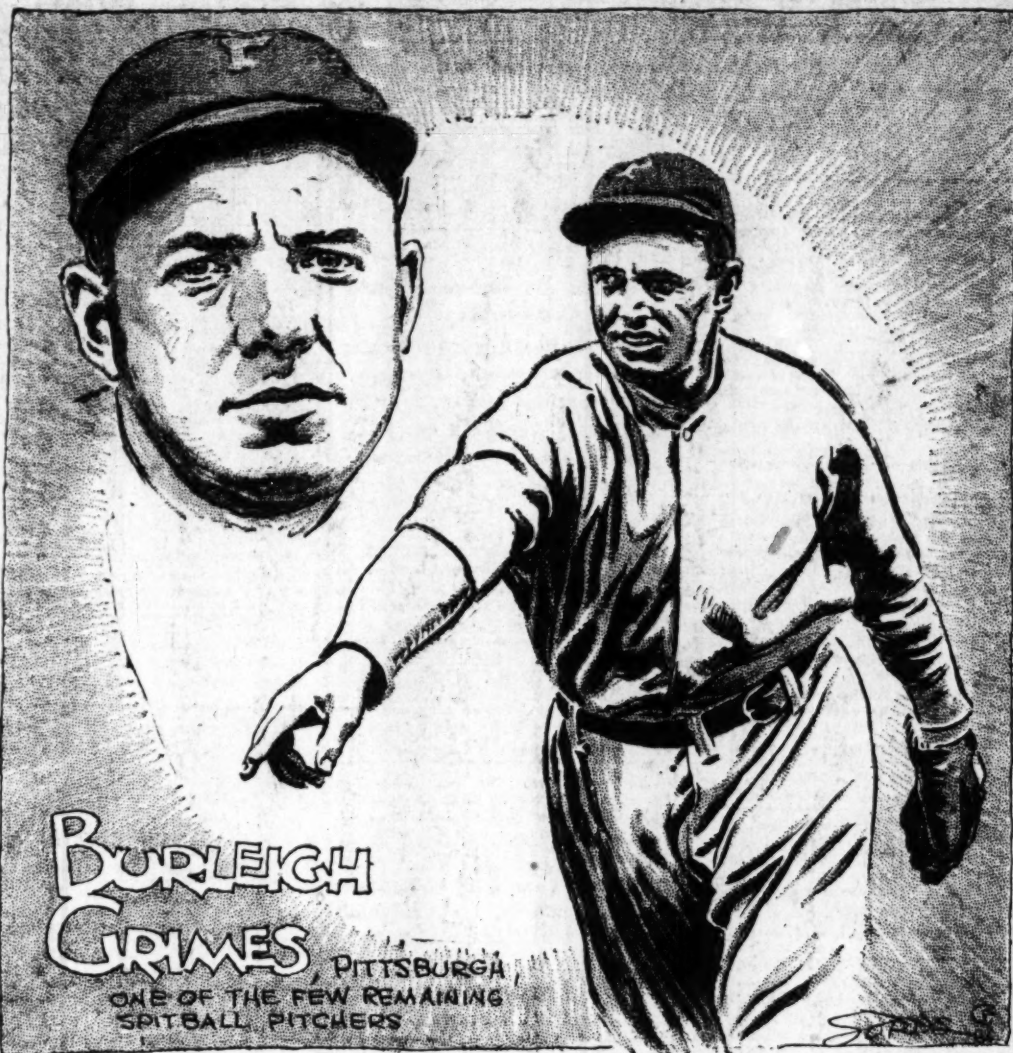

AT JAMAICA. In a blanket finish, the Judd stable's Gregory, with P. McAtee astride, won victory over T. M. Cassidy's Melitina, with R. J. Wilson's Play Ball third, in the Montauk claiming stakes, the feature event of the day's card at Jamaica.

The victory of Gregory was largely due to the fine ride made by McAtee. Away to a flying start, McAtee let his mount step out. He led by a length at the top of the stretch, when the field began to close. At the turning pole Gregory was going nicely, but Barrett brought Melitina up fast on the outside. McAtee, however, saw him closing and sat down and rode the Judd stable entry to victory. The five furlongs were run in 1:01 1/5, and the race was worth $4,100 to the owner of the winner.

Great Leader. Albie Booth, freshman at Yale, has captained football, basketball and baseball, a record.

New Wood Boats. Gar Wood will build two boats for the gold cup regatta at Red Bank, N. J., August 24 and 25.

Racing Park Planned For Guthrie, Kentucky

Nashville, Tenn., April 29.—(AP)—Plans for the construction of a racing park at fairgrounds at Guthrie, Ky., following the purchase of the famous old one-mile track there, have been announced by the Kentucky and Tennessee Thoroughbred Association, of which R. M. Williams, of Nashville, is president.

The organization, capitalized at $150,000, plans to spend approximately that much this year in the construction of a track, stables for 300 horses, live stock and exhibition buildings and paddocks. Mr. Williams announced. A country club house for members of the association and an 18-hole golf course will also be provided. Work will be started this week.

The association, incorporated under the laws of Delaware, with its charter registered in Kentucky, will enjoy all the privileges of racing in Kentucky, while the track will be readily accessible to Tennessee. Options upon 300 acres of land adjoining the park in the two states have been secured. The track will be called "Willoughby Park."

The first race has been set for October 14 to 16. Grand circuit trotters and pacers will be brought on, and running races have been arranged for. The association's membership comprises a number of thoroughbred and livestock breeders of the two states.

Grimes Enters His Fourteenth Year As a Hurler.

Burleigh Grimes, veteran National league pitcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates, and one of the few remaining spitball artists, started his fourteenth season in the big time by hanging up his 20th victory.

Grimes seems to be fooling the boys who, shortly after he came to the Pirates in 1916, predicted a short career for him. He frequently exhibited a lack of ability to control his temper on the field and consequently got into jangles with other players. This, it was thought, would soon spell his doom.

At Pittsburgh and later with Brooklyn and New York, he often mixed with members of his own team and rival players. But here he is, back with the team that gave him his start in the National league, still pitching winning ball. He piled up 25 victories for the Pirates last year.

Grimes will be 36 years old in August. This makes him one of the oldest pitchers in the majors.

He made his professional debut in 1913 with Ottawa and was given a trial the same year with Detroit. The Tigers sent him to Chattanooga in part payment for Harry Coveleskie. Burleigh also saw service with Birmingham and Richmond before breaking in with the Pirates for the first time.

Ohio Relays Draw Stars

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—Having written more track history at Drake and Pennsylvania, scores of America's track and field stars will seek more glory and new marks at the annual Ohio state relay carnival this week.

The carnival, one of America's fastest events, will be held Friday and Saturday at Columbus and will bring into open competition many stars, who divided their speed and prowess between the relays at Drake and Pennsylvania last week.

Two new world marks were established during the twentieth renewal of the Drake event Friday and Saturday. Carl Jark, Brawley West Point cadet, hurled the discus 158 feet 3 inches for one, while the University of Illinois relay team shot over the 480-yard course in the shuttles hurdle event in the record-smashing time of 10:24 or 1-5 of a second faster than its own record established last year.

While Jark's performance was the most outstanding, the Illinois feat was spectacular because it was done under adverse conditions—a sloppy track and in a rain.

Illinois, which won four of the seven relay events at Drake, expects to enter the Ohio state carnival, while Iowa probably will send its team, which took three relays.

George Simpson, Ohio State, who equaled the world mark in the century at the Penn games, will face strong opposition with several stars from the east and west aligned against him.

Grinnell Co. Team Downs Lindale, 16-5

Lindale, Ga., April 29.—(Special).—Getting three home runs, the Grinnell Company of Atlanta defeated Lindale, of the Georgia-Alabama league, 16 to 5, here before a large gathering of fans.

The first home run came in the fourth inning when Tucker, Grinnell pitcher, hit for the circuit with the bases loaded, but he was later followed by Britt and Dowda.

Grinnell was defeated last Friday by Cedartown, 5 to 1. The Grinnell company will play at Carrollton Wednesday.

U. S. Marines Beat Wake Forest, 15-7

Quasico, Va., April 29.—(AP)—By the overwhelming score of 15 to 7, the baseball team of the United States Marines defeated Wake Forest here this afternoon. The game was for the most part slow and uninteresting, both teams fielding erratically.

COLLEGE STARS HIGH-PRICED

Southern Collegiate Diamond Stars Hold Out for Big Money.

By Eddie Brietz.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Big league baseball scouts now combing the southern rah rah belt for raw material, report that college ivory on the hoof is bringing fancier prices this season than ever before.

Four scouts met at the Auburn-Georgia Tech game here the other day and compared notes on the high cost of getting collegiate signatures on the well-known dotted line. All agreed that if the young athletes are still in the freshman class as ball players, most of them are post-graduates when it comes to financing.

They told the story of an infielder at a North Carolina college who has been offered $10,000 to cast his lot with a club in the National league, but who is holding out for more.

MERCENARY STUDENT. A pitcher in the same state, but on a different team, has been dickering with several scouts, but he refuses to do business until he is satisfied that all the bids are in.

One of the quietest of scouts received a telegram from his club to rush up to North Carolina and see this fellow before it is too late.

There is an outfielder in Georgia who has the earmarks of a hitter. He graciously receives all visiting scouts, but does not hesitate to let them know that the club getting his services will be the one writing the fattest check.

It is talked here that when one scout offered him $5,000 just to sign a contract, the young man failed to even bat an eye.

IVORY HUNTERS. The woods hereabouts are full of ivory hunters and they are giving the minor league magnates many anxious moments.

The owners of clubs in small cities cannot compete with their more powerful brethren either in gumshoe men or in bankrolls and they must nurse their grief on the sidelines while the scouts, with their well-filled pouches, step in and sign the cream of the collegiate crop from right under their noses.

SPURS TO COACH. Bill Spears, former star quarterback at Vanderbilt, is slated to become a member of the Commodore coaching staff as assistant to his old mentor, Dan McGugin.

Spears, who is now coaching at McCallie school, Chattanooga, already has conferred with McGugin, and two are believed to have reached an agreement.

'Battle of Brawn' Will Be Staged At Gotham Club

New York, April 29.—(AP)—A new kind of circus is coming to town this week. Made up entirely of amateur strong men the novel show will hold forth Friday and Saturday at the German-American Athletic Club and end in award of national titles for the event of the annual A. A. U. championship in the little known sport of weight-lifting.

Ballyhooed in true circus fashion as "the greatest strength contest ever held in this country," the battle of brawn will attract a nationwide entry including the present national welterweight champion, Ernie Sundberg, of the Multnomah A. C., Portland, Ore.

Other study contenders include R. H. Apple and R. Bachtel, both of Hagerstown, Md.; A. Manager, of Baltimore, and A. Levant, Reading, Pa., as well as the metropolitan champions.

To those who take their weight-lifting seriously the event is a good test of the mercurial material for the Olympics of 1932. There is room for improvement as Germany, Austria and France divided the laurels at Amsterdam, with Uncle Sam unrepresented.

BABY JOE GANS WINS OVER RENO

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Baby Joe Gans, negro welterweight from Los Angeles, earned a decision over Joe Reno, veteran New Jersey boxer, in a hard-fought ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas arena tonight.

Gans weighed 143 1/2; Reno 145 1/2. Reno, who substituted for Charles Rose, of New York, gave Gans a terrific battle of it all the way. He took only one round, the third, but pored in, despite a stream of punches, from the first round to the last.

He dropped Gans for no count in the fifth round but the negro batter held the edge almost all the way.

Benny Bass Beats Cleveland Battler

Philadelphia, April 29.—(AP)—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, was awarded the decision over Johnny Farr, Cleveland, in a slashing 10-round bout at the Arena tonight.

Bass weighed 128 1/2 pounds, Farr 130. The decision was unpopular. Many experts at the ringside scored the majority of the rounds for Farr.

LONDOS BREAKS MAT DATE HERE

Religious Holiday Causes Cancellation—Strack To Meet Jones.

Jimmy Londos will not wrestle on the card to be presented by E. W. McGroarty Friday night at the auditorium-annex. Friday is a holiday in the Greek church of which Londos is a member and he has informed McGroarty that he will not be available.

He also apologized to McGroarty for accepting the date and being forced to break it. He will wrestle here at a later date, said McGroarty Monday.

Londos was to wrestle Paul Jones, Bears cyclist. McGroarty immediately sent out wires for another opponent and secured the services of Charles Strack, former Olympic champion.

McGroarty has a rather colorful career. He has been in the game ever since graduation from the University of Illinois in 1926. While at Illinois he played tackle on the football team in the seasons of 1924 and 1925. In 1925 he was captain and all-American. He was on the same team with Red Grange, the famous galloping ghost.

McGroarty then turned to wrestling and has lost only one bout in his professional career. He played professional football with the Chicago Bears in 1927 and was named on the all-professional team that year. He weighs 210 pounds.

Buck Olson is a Swede and a former member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police force. He is also a former wrestling instructor of the University of Minnesota. He weighs 217 pounds.

Protests. Already protests have been heard over the barring of heavyweights in intercollegiate boxing. Navy, particularly, is campaigning against the change in classes.

Mrs. Bellman Takes Charge Of Camp Duties

Mrs. Helen Marcell Bellman, of Washington, D. C., arrived yesterday in Atlanta to assume the duties of Camp Fire director of the Camp Fire Girls' camp at Toccoa, Ga., opening June 17. She was recommended by Mrs. Thomas Brooke, president of the Atlanta Camp Fire Girls, by the national headquarters of the Camp Fire Girls, and is a graduate of the fine arts department of the University of Kentucky, and holds a degree in public school music. Mrs. Bellman attended camp the greater part of every summer since she was fourteen, first as a girl, then a counselor and then a director. In rank she is a torchbearer, the highest honor attained by Camp Fire Girls and is also a Red Cross life saver. She has had much experience in dramatics, music and pageantry and has plans for some beautiful camp programs.

Since the management of the camp at Toccoa has been divided between the director and the business manager, Mrs. Laura Lombard, Mrs. Bellman will be relieved of any responsibility of the business affairs and will be free to devote all her time to the camp activities, teaching interesting classes in handicraft, nature lore, camp craft and athletics. Mrs. William Jay McKenna, of Prides Crossing, Mass., formerly Miss Isoline Campbell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Orme Campbell, beloved Atlantans, arrives in Atlanta tomorrow from Miami, Fla., where, with Mr. Kenna and their children, she spent the entire winter, and will spend the month of May here.

She is the niece of Mrs. Mark Cooper Pope, with whom she will spend part of the time she is in Atlanta.

Mrs. McKenna organized the Junior league and was its first president, and later was elected honorary life president, a highly prized honor, coveted by Junior league members. Her marriage to Mr. McKenna, who is a member of one of the most aristocratic families of Boston, was one of the most brilliant events in the social annals of this city, and was solemnized at an all fresco ceremony at the Peachtree street home, which will be opened for her reception upon her arrival Wednesday.

TOBACCO TOPPING TIME FINDS GOOD CROP IN THOMAS

Thomasville, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—Topping time for the tobacco crop is approaching. The crop in Thomas county is unusually fine, up to date, and with right care tobacco men believe this county will this year produce weed of the finest quality that has been put on the market here since growing tobacco became a seriously important industry of the section.

The topping is one of the most important operations, and calls for greater exercise of judgment by the grower than any other operation in connection with tobacco culture. Guy Jones, of the local tobacco warehouse, and County Farm Agent Pat Ward are busy around the county giving all assistance they can to the growers.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

Hollywood, Calif., April 29.—And now a most amusing situation has developed in movieland.

Along comes a gentleman known favorably in the legitimate theater—a gentleman by the name of Bill Boyd. He is hired by movie moguls to play a sizeable part in a moving picture which is being made.

And the producers who have the movie Bill Boyd under contract are all a-flutter that their fans—"Bill Boyd fans"—will be disappointed when they enter the theater, seeing this name and find a perfect stranger.

That the perfect stranger has splendid stage training means nothing to them. They feel the beholder will be cheated. But the stage genius has as much right to the somewhat bourgeois cognomen "Bill Boyd" as has the cinemaite.

Solomon is needed. And as usual he is out of Hollywood. On location. The stage is up in arms. So is movieland. Polite cynicisms are being exchanged. But to whom do you appeal in such a case? Parents who feel they have given a young genius to the world should consider the copyright lists, to see that names are not duplicated.

Colleen Moore appeared at luncheon yesterday looking like the second smugler in Carmen. She is letting her famous square bob grow out so she may impress the public at large as an ingenuous Irish Colleen. Ingenuousness, in movieland, is found in the cylinder of a lady's curl.

The three Moores are coming back in a picture. (This has nothing to do with the Moore that went before.) These are respectively Tom Moore, Mat Moore and Owen Moore. All three fascinating Irishmen are to be seen in a story which will be a tale of contemporary New York.

If it's made in sound, see I, they won't be able to hear the Moores by reason of the subway. And other charming little New York sounds. Not forgetting the steel riveters—those Manhattan meadow-larks who make the early morning glorious.

Movieland has been wondering what excuse Henri de la Palaise—who made Gloria Swanson a marquise—has had for his European sojourn: He has signed Constance Bennett, beautiful and talented, for the talkies. And that is his Boy Scout action for this month.

Joan Bennett is already here. Her blonde slenderness has flashed across the screen in a Ronald Colman picture. And it has flashed across the footlights to the colony in a stage production of Doris Keane's which was fated to have a brief blooming. The reason for this comes back to the famous "You can't fool all of the people all of the time"—even in Hollywood.

Now and then some sixth sense, most of the time dormant, warns them that this is an awful play, and to tell their friends to stay at home and read the ads or listen to the radio.

And that is what happened to Doris Keane when she tried to give the local public a premiere of a play billed: "Hollywood Before New York and London Runs." New York and London will be spared. Even west coast towns are mercifully let out of it. The movie village alone rang down the curtain, but not before the play revealed that Joan Bennett was beautiful though not possessed of striking histrionic talents.

First Inauguration Day

One hundred and forty years ago today, George Washington took oath of office as president. "Long live Washington, first president of the United States!" shouted the throng in New York's inaugural hall.

Their fervor was the climax of a two weeks' journey from Mount Vernon, Virginia. Bonfires lighted the way. A festooned barge bore the newly elected president across the Delaware. Young girls in white, suiting their action to the words of their song, "strewed the hero's way with flowers."

We find pleasure in the quaintness of the triumphal procession—quaintness increased by the slow pace of the president's carriage.

But we would not have the carriage back. Our homes, our pleasures, our business are adjusted to motor cars and airplanes.

Love for the past—obligation to live up to every achievement of today—this is the motto of Rich's—

OUR CLUB — By Secretary Hawkins

JERRY AND I STARTED OUR SPY WORK TODAY. THERE'S SOME FUNNY BUSINESS GOING ON IN PELHAM. ALL RIGHT. THAT RED HEAD FELLOW IS BACK AGAIN. THEY CALL HIM MONK. HE LOOKS LIKE HIS NAME, TOO.

WE CRAWLED UP PRETTY CLOSE TO THE PELHAM CAMPFIRE. THEY ALL WERE SITTING AROUND IN A RING, TALKING IN A LOW VOICE. THE RED HEAD FELLOW DID MOST OF THE TALKING.

WE HEARD A FEW WORDS. JERRY AND I DIDN'T KNOW WHAT THEY WERE TALKING ABOUT, BUT WE CRAWLED BACK TO MY CAMP, AND WENT BACK TO OUR SIDE, AND TOLD CAPTAIN JOHNNY WHAT WE HEARD THE RED HEAD SAY.

OUR CAPTAIN KIND'N SOFTENED DOWN WHEN HE SAW HOW HUFFY I GOT. HE SAID, "I DIDN'T MEAN IT THAT WAY, HAWKINS, BUT YOU FELLOWS OUGHT TO HAVE STAYED THERE UNTIL YOU HEARD WHAT THEY WERE GOING TO DO TO US!"

with a boy and he seems to be in love with me. He is 18 and I am 14. Would it be all right to ask him to go to a party with my brother's girl and my brother and myself?

"SIS R."

Perfectly proper either for you or your brother to ask him.

"Dear Virginia Lee: My boy friend matter?"

He's 21. My friends say he's the same age I am, which is 14. How can I tell?

"SENTIMENTAL SIS."

TOOTHACHE does not always come to warn us. Unnoticed, the poisons from a decayed tooth may be spreading through your system, stealing strength and energy, and perhaps bringing serious illness.

Use Squibb's Dental Cream to guard against this danger. It gives your teeth a pearly luster and it neutralizes the treacherous acids at The Danger Line and elsewhere, which are the principal cause of tooth decay and gum irritations. Made with 50% Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, it can bring full protection. Squibb's is delightfully flavored. And it is safe to use on the gums. 40c a large tube.

an old hygienic problem solved a new way

Assurance, comfort, poise, fine grooming are made possible for the business woman, at all times . . . because of this new kind of sanitary protection.

SOME women actually feel that a business career would not have been possible without the remarkable discovery named Kotex. This scientific sanitary protection makes possible for women a freedom, an active life never before possible.

In these ways, Kotex answers a vital need: the marvelous filler, Cellucotton absorbent wadding, takes up 16 times its own weight in moisture. Ease of disposability means much, not only in emergency situations but at all times. Kotex is disposed of like tissue . . . as directions in each box explain. And there are certain new perfections which distinguish this as the superior sanitary napkin.

Kotex deodorizes safely, instantly. A process has been discovered whereby each pad deodorizes completely and safely. This formula is considered so important that it has been patented by the Kotex Company. It is, of course, to be found in no other sanitary pad.

No evidence of sanitary protection. Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered all conspicuous bulkiness has been eliminated. Snug, secure fit is assured.

Cellucotton absorbent wadding comes in layers, which can be adjusted to one's individual need. That is a unique advantage which women always find comforting. Then, too, there is an easy softness about both gause and filler. Manufacturing refinements keep adding to your comfort.

SUPER-SIZE KOTEX
Formerly 90c
Now 65c

Some women find Super-size Kotex a special comfort. Exactly the same as the Regular size Kotex, but with added layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding.

Buy a box of Kotex today. It is 45c for a box of 12 at any drug, dry goods or department store; also obtainable through vending cabinets in restaurants by West Disinfecting Co.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE WOOD DUCKS DECIDE TO STAY

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The one who's fussy in his ways is so, he says, because it pays. —Beauty the Wood Duck.

Peter Rabbit was disappointed. He was a little hurt, too. Beauty and Mrs. Wood Duck had left without even saying good-by. One minute they had been talking with him and the next minute they had disappeared over the tree tops. Peter had so hoped that they would decide to make their home there in the pond of Paddy the Beaver.

"I don't see what they were in such a hurry for," said he. "They only arrived this morning and now they have left."

"Probably they are in a hurry to start nesting," said Mrs. Quack the Mallard Duck. When she said it there was a twinkle in her eyes that Peter missed altogether.

"I don't see why they should be in any greater hurry than you are," said Peter. "You are staying over."

"Perhaps we need the nest more than they do," explained Mrs. Quack. "Probably we will go farther than they will."

Peter had to accept this explanation for lack of any better one and presently he went to look for something to eat. He had just settled himself comfortably to fill that big stomach of his when he heard a sharp whistle of wings. Looking up through the tree tops he caught a glimpse of a pair of ducks. They were headed toward Paddy's pond. He had only a glimpse of them, but he was sure he recognized them.

"Those were the Wood Ducks!" he exclaimed. "I am sure of it. I wonder what they have come back for."

He forgot that he was hungry. His curiosity was greater than his hunger. Away he went, straight for the shore of Paddy's pond. When he came in sight of it there sat Beauty and Mrs. Wood Duck preening their feathers as if they had never been away at all.

"So you decided to come back, did you?" cried Peter.

"No," replied Beauty. "We didn't decide to come back. We simply decided to stay."

"But you went away!" cried Peter. "I saw you go. Why did you change your minds and come back?"

"We didn't change our minds," replied Beauty. "You see, we hadn't made them up then. We didn't really go away—we just looked things over."

"I told you there were plenty of trees," cried Peter.

"Perhaps you are right," replied Beauty. "We didn't find but one, but one is all we can use, so we have decided to stay."

"I am so glad!" cried Peter. "We'll be neighbors now. But I don't understand what you mean by saying that you could find only one tree."

"I mean," replied Beauty, "that we could find only one suited to our needs."

Peter thought of all the big trees in the Green Forest. "You must be fussy," said he.

"We are," replied Beauty. "We are very fussy. A tree must be just "Where is it?" asked Peter.

Beauty the Wood Duck chuckled. "Now, Peter," said he reproachfully, "don't you know better than to ask a question like that? Are the rest of your feathered friends in the habit of telling you where their homes are?"

Peter grinned. "I'll find out," said he.

"You can try," replied Beauty. (Copyright, 1929, for The Constitution.)

DINNER STORIES

A RAKE-OFF.

A colored man went to his pastor and handed him a letter to the Lord, which ran: "Please send this poor fellow $50.00. He is a very poor fellow, a kind-hearted man, called together several of his friends and said: 'This poor fellow has so much faith in the Lord that he expects Him to send the $50 right away. We shouldn't let him be disappointed. Let's make a collection for him.' This was done, and $42 was contributed, which sum was sent to the ingenious petitioner."

Next day the colored man handed the pastor another letter. This one ran: "Dear Lord: De nex time You send dis darkey money, don't send it through no parson—send it to me direct."

Diet and Health
BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

WORKS HARD, GAINS CONTINUALLY.

"I began to put on weight when I was a girl. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall and at 17 I weighed 165. At 18 I was married, and at 21, when my first child was born, I weighed 185. Three years later I weighed 200, and four years later my third child, and I went to 225. It is now nine years since then, and I now weigh 365. So you see, in 19 years, I have gained 188 pounds. I've doctored all my life to get regular periods, for doctors have told me that my irregularity was the cause of my excess weight. I've dieted even down to living three weeks on only the juice of one-half orange three times a day. And I gained three pounds! I finally acquired such a load of fallen tissues across the abdomen which had filled in with fat that I had a roll of 20 pounds removed, and during that time they tried all kinds of diets and tests to find out the cause of my condition, and finally all we were told was that it was lack of internal secretion."

"I know I can't all this while, but I work hard and seem to require a good meal to keep up. I do the housework for seven, and assist my father in a confectionery store and in a postmaster. I would like to know if you think Petersing will do me any good. When I see others enjoying themselves and dressing nicely, I get so blue I nearly lose my control."

"MRS. S."

First let me tell you that your irregular periods, denoting, perhaps, a lowered functioning of the ovaries, are not the cause of your excess weight, Mrs. S. But your excess weight may be the cause of your irregular periods.

Second, as it requires over 1,000 calories to furnish energy for the internal activities—the beating of the heart, the peristalsis, the breathing, etc.—it would be absolutely impossible not to lose on the juice of an orange and one-half daily, for that would be about 100 calories. So the conclusion is that you had considerably more than you remember.

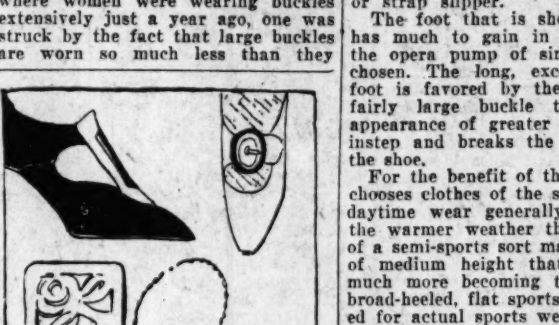

You say that you require a good deal of food to keep up, and that you assist your father in a confectionery store. Two clues!

You never know how much you eat, not until you know the caloric values of foods and keep track of them. A short time ago, we had a letter from a woman who, like you, had gained to 350 pounds. When she wrote, she had lost 120 pounds in 15 months, by Petersing. So you see, it can be done. She, too, had thought something was wrong with her.

Now, Mrs. S., you were sent the reducing pamphlet, and I want you to read it again after you have carried its instructions out faithfully for a month. You are going to be surprised and delighted at how much you will lose in that time, for where there is

Large shoe buckles are still worn, but fortunately they are now recognized as not appropriate for every type of foot. The short, broad or very large foot looks better with some other form of ornament. At luncheon at a fashionable restaurant recently where women were wearing buckles extensively just a year ago, one was struck by the fact that large buckles were worn so much less than they

For the benefit of the woman who chooses clothes of the sports type for daytime wear generally throughout the warmer weather there are shoes of medium height that are usually much more becoming than the very broad-heeled, flat sports shoes intended for actual sports wear.

For wear with these sports type of ensembles, stockings of a not exaggerated sun-tan shade are in good taste, though any beige that harmonizes with the rest of the costume may be worn.

If you have a little girl I am sure you will find this week's help for the home dresser very helpful. Your Home and You
BY BETSY CALLISTER.

Men architects are employed to design our houses and apartments, and men are employed to build them. Men design and make the furniture and the decorations. But the selection and arrangement of furniture, decorations and ornaments are left to the women almost entirely.

Even in most business offices when it is decided to furnish a reception room or private office other than the thoroughly austere and conventional manner a woman is asked to take charge. To choose a rug a lamp or a reception room table is something that most men consider a difficult and trying task.

It is often said that women do not furnish their houses to please the men of the family and that men would usually choose and arrange furniture in quite a different way than that usually followed by women. And yet most men, I think, are amazingly well pleased with the rooms their wives furnish. At least most men are much better content to live in rooms furnished by their wives than most women would be to live in rooms furnished by their husbands and fathers.

A generation ago most men who could afford it and whose houses were large enough had a special room of so much excess weight, the first fat goes very rapidly. You really should have a physical check-up by a physician, but get a modern one, for if you don't he will tell you it is due to glandular disturbances and you need only medication. You can reduce, and you should reduce; otherwise you are liable to go on to diabetes, or heart or kidney disease, and you most certainly will depart your life long before your time.

Mrs. B.—We do not keep the addresses of our correspondents, so cannot pass your letter on to Mrs. G. Her case was a surgical one and not a simple inflammation such as yours seems to be. (However, I suggest you have an examination.) Thank you very much for your kind intentions.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address, Petersing, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Living and Loving BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

If you have a friend it is well to treat him as nicely as you know how. Otherwise you are liable to be waiting that you have lost him, and "how can I win him back," are you not? This is the text of letter after letter that I opened today.

Some friends are easily "peered." Others are "faithful unto death," and it seems no matter how you treat them they always remain steadfast. Query: Are those that get angry and break the friendship easily worth having? Should not we, when they "go off" mail, rather sing with the children: "He's mad and I'm glad?"

Lonesome quit going with a boy because she wanted to go with a "wild bunch of boys and girls and they didn't want me to go with him." Now they have deserted her and she wants to know if she should go back to him or not?

Surely, go back to him if he wants you, and you like him, Lonesome, and next time don't give your friends up just because others ask you to.

Ruth's boy friend no longer cares. How can she win him back? Shall she make him jealous?

I imagine it won't do any good, Ruth. Why not concentrate on another school friend, or — on your studies for awhile?

Brown Eyes has a sweetheart whose mother does not approve of the friendship as they live some distance apart. Can the mother break up the friendship, do I think?

I suppose the mother thinks going to see you keeps the boy out late at night and she worries about him, which is perfectly natural. Whether she can break up the friendship depends on the boy. Some young people become more stubborn when opposed, others weaken. Try to see that your boy friend gets home in good time so that his mother won't have to worry, and you probably will keep him.

Satisfied writes again to say she read "Satisfied's Sister's" letter and liked it and would like to correspond with the latter. She is jealous of her boy friend but is trying to overcome it and feels she will be "victorious in the end."

I am sure you will, dear. Thank you for your friendly words to me, too. I value such friendship even though we probably will never meet.

Grey Eyes: I wonder if your letter was serious. Sounded a bit "fishy" to me. Don't marry until you are sure you love one man better than the other. If your husband wants you back and you can make him happy, it might be best to go back to him.

OBOY BREAD

IT'S the kind of bread that all the family can eat at every meal—and enjoy. Made first for boys and girls, it has become equally popular with fathers and mothers. Its flaky golden crust, its smooth white center, make it deliciously unlike any other loaf. THE UNKISSSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.
Joy Harrison, living in London and working for some doctors in Harley street, is filled with happiness at the prospect of the return from Tahiti of her fiancé, Geoffrey Bond, a well-known novelist. As she is about to leave for the office one glorious May morning a letter from Geoffrey reaches her and with it the bottom falls out of the universe.

INSTALLMENT II. END OF A DREAM.

That letter which had caused the bottom of the universe to fall right out and to leave Joy hanging on to a sheer wall above a pit of misery.

That letter which said:
Raddy Cottage, Near Maidenhead,
May 11.

Joy Darling:

I am most terribly, terribly sorry, but it has happened again. You know I explained "it" last winter, before we were even engaged. I told you I can never smoke more than the first inch of a good cigar; drink more than the first half of a glass of champagne. I am like that about emotions. "The first line, careless rapture," and then it goes Phut on me. Such rotten luck!

Then I found you. I thought you were going to be the cure. In fact, I was cocksure about it; braced and happy. Even when I was away I said to myself, I am right. It is not that I am fickle; I have been too faithful to my ideal that I have been chasing behind every fresh face. At last I have found her. Joy, wonderful little Joy, with her brown cherub's head and great eyes and laughing foxglove-pink lips, and wild keenness for life and absurd domesticity; all mixed up! She shall be able to stick to her. She will be home, and the haven, and all I've tried to find behind every fresh attraction. The crash, thank God, needn't happen—

But, Joy, it has. Things have changed in my grasp. Instead of the haven I see the trap. It isn't even as if there were another girl. I don't know what it is. Out there one worked like a black—and by the way this new novel is an absolute breakaway, the best thing I've ever done. One had no time to think. But the moment I got back to my mother's, I knew.

What are we to do, Joy? I put it to you, dear. It may be that one has made some ghastly mistake, and that it might turn out all right. If one went on with it, one would be gentle and patient and sweet—though, well, I know it is scarcely your lay to be "patient." You were ever the impulsive sprite; a flash of quick intelligence, a flame of temper, a sparkle of delight, that was you. How crazy I must have been about you, to be able to remember so vividly!

O, Joy, how I wish you could manage to make me stop feeling such a rotter.

Does it have to be "off"? Little girl, I leave it to you. If you say, "Geoffrey, I get you," I understand that you have done it again and that last winter's wonderful romance is a wreck and a mess. But all the same I'll try and make what I can of it and marry you at once—"If" if you write that, Joy, what you say shall go. I shall be ready to do all I can. Let me know as soon as you decide; and decide quickly.

Yours, most horribly sorry for everything,
GEOFFREY

She could hear the deprecating grunt as he signed his name. She could see, as he lifted his dark head to take that envelope from the pigeon-hole of his mother's little escritoire, every detail of his boyish, fine nose, somewhat Italian good looks. She could feel his attitude of mind as—

The bus stopped.

Lightly Joy got up and sprang out. The next thing of which she was conscious was of taking the cover off her typewriter.

Everything in between was a complete blank. Guided by habit she had (as she did every other morning) gone up a street to the right, crossed a square with railings that griddled plane trees, walked down another street and into the straight thoroughfare of tall important looking houses where she had worked since Geoffrey had been away. Unconscious of her surroundings as in a sleepwalker, she must have reached that familiar ivy green door with the stately fanlight and the shining brass plates with the names:

MR. RYCROFT.
DR. REX TRAVERS.
DR. SAXON LOCKE.

Like an automaton she must have replied to the good morning of Mary, the door maid; and, since Roy, the huge, creamy-brown Alsatian, always bounded across the hall to meet her, she must have greeted and patted him? She could not have said: she had no memory of how she had passed across this wide tiled hall, picked up the morning's post from the oaken side-table, and reached the room given up to the secretary's use. To each side of this small room with the table, typewriter and telephone were the consulting rooms of Dr. Saxon Locke and Dr. Rex Travers. That of Dr. Locke was furnished according to the taste of one who did not consider that "East was east and west was west and never the twain should meet"; ultra-oriental was every arrangement in it. Black-and-gold lacquer predominated, drag-out scarlet over sofa draperies, fat white porcelain idols contemplated their own rotundities. The consulting room of Dr. Travers was severely plain; there was a shelf of silver cups, framed photographs of football teams on the walls. Also the photograph of a slim pilot in flying kit (Dr. Travers' brother-in-law) standing beside the propeller of a Bristol bomber which had been shot down in 1918.

The war had cut early into the medical studies of Dr. Travers. He was a woman's doctor who had done remarkably well in the face of obstacles to his career, seeing that he came of a hard-up family, and that he had left his hospital in his first year to join up, not in any medical capacity but, like his brother-in-law, in the air force. For the years he had lived that life of the fighting hawk, reckless as the rest... (even now he clung to that first love, he owned, and flew at week-ends, his private airplane). Later he had come back to medicine and plodded, working up a connection, establishing himself in Harley street, saving. All his savings had gone to buying the lease of this imposing house. One floor he had let off to Mr. Rycroft, the dentist; two of the consulting rooms on the ground floor were taken by his old friend, Dr. Saxon Locke.

They shared the secretary, Miss Harrison. She thought, dully, "I hope I don't show anything's happened."

As she opened correspondence for her two employers she scanned mind repeated phrases out of that other letter.

"It has happened again... Instead of the haven, I see the trap... I have lost my keenness for going on..."

And how crazy I must have been about you."

Been. Finished now. Over. End of a dream. Take it in, girl.

"Good morning, Miss Harrison."

Early this morning, in came Dr. Travers, a big, fair athletic man of 35.

"Clean" was the rather absurd word that came to your mind as you looked at him. He wore a snowy linen jacket, particularly well cut and well "got up," with his otherwise darkly conventional clothes.

Thinly striped trousers, waistcoat, shirt, tie, shoes—all were of the town, towney. Yet there emanated from him the aura of the open air. He reminded you of the rugby football player, the rowing man, the sprinter of terms long past, and still he looked more of an airman than a doctor.

Joy Harrison had never seen him except as a large gold-white-and-black image who dictated notes, left orders, and disappeared into those inner regions of blinking, winking white Rinaldi and porcelain and machines for artificial sunlight and glittering steel implements. This morning, the girl (inwardly demanding... but what do I say? In answer of Geoffrey's letter) saw less than usual. Though, as a matter of fact, there might have been more to see.

Something had happened to Dr. Rex Travers. Any woman who took any interest in him would have noticed. It was to be heard in his voice as he said "good morning" to Miss Harrison.

She never heard it as she replied, "good morning, Dr. Travers." It was completely lost on her that to this fellow creature, anything devastating had occurred.

WORKHOUSE FARE PLAIN BUT GOOD

Not Bad Jail or Good Resort

BY KENNETH G. CRAWFORD, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 29.—(United News.)—The District of Columbia workhouse at Occoquan, Va., where Harry Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate and sportsman, will probably pass the next three months, is neither a good summer resort nor a bad jail, as summer resorts and jails go.

Located on the crest of a hill overlooking a point of land formed by the junction of meandering Occoquan creek with the Potomac river, it has scenic charms. The hilltop is barren, however, and the summer sun is not cool on shadeless spots in Virginia.

The food is wholesome but not fancy—typical prison fare. It is served from enamel dishes on long, bare tables. All of the 550 prisoners eat at the same board pavilion, not unlike an army mess hall, the negroes at one end and the whites at the other. Sinclair will be allowed no specially prepared meals and will eat in the mess hall with the other inmates.

Sleeping quarters, too, are like army barracks. They are only eight barred cells on the place, frequently used for incorrigibles. Well-behaved prisoners sleep together in large bunks.

Each is assigned one of the narrow cots arranged in rows on either side of a central passage way. He has no property except the clothes he wears.

Coarse Material.

These are of coarse material, suitable to farming and brickmaking, but not uniforms. Wearing apparel is kept clean at the prison laundry. A bathhouse is at the disposal of prisoners any evening.

"They have to bathe once a week," an official explained, "but can use the showers any time they want to."

The discipline is not so rigid as in a penitentiary. A common recreation hall is available to prisoners in the evening. They may talk in the barracks, at their work and in low voices at meals. Sinclair will have an opportunity to become well acquainted with his fellow prisoners. In fact, he will have no opportunity to avoid it.

His companions will be men of all ages, but most of them youths. Their crimes have been of a petty nature, or they would not be at the workhouse, which merely takes care of the overflow from the district jail in Washington. Almost all Occoquan prisoners serve less than a year. For longer terms and more serious offenses they are sent to the reformatory, just over the hill from the workhouse.

Every workhouse inmate, as implied by the name of the institution, is forced to work. The principal occupations are in the brickyard. Located at the foot of the hill, the automobile license tag shop, or on the farm surrounding the group of workhouse buildings.

Works at Own Choice.

"We give every prisoner the work he can do best," said Captain Morris C. Barnard, general superintendent of the district penal institutions. "Sinclair would probably not make much of a brickmaker. He will most likely be given some kind of clerical work.

"But there will be no favoritism. He will be treated the same as any other prisoner. I don't know yet just what his job will be. That will be determined when he is committed to our care."

The supreme court has decided Sinclair must spend three months in jail for contempt of the senate, a charge growing out of his refusal to answer certain questions propounded to him during the Teapot Dome oil investigation. A mandate is to be sent on May 4 to the lower court which sentenced Sinclair.

Then arrangements will be made by his attorneys for his surrender. He will probably come to Washington from New York early next week, give himself up at once and stay for a few days in the district jail. If physical examinations show him to be in good condition, he will then be removed to Occoquan.

COPELAND DENIES PROHIBITION POSITION DUE TO M. E. BOARD

Washington, April 29.—(P)—Representing what he described as "improper activity" of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, today called upon Dr. Clarence True Wilson, its general secretary, not to "misrepresent me or my position on prohibition."

Copeland, who is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, cited an article in Liberty Magazine and another article in the Baltimore Sun, in which the senator said: "Credit appears to have been taken by your organization for my vote on the prohibition enforcement bill."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he declared.

As soon as he received the letter Wilson issued a reply, in which he declared the board was "very greatly interested in getting the prohibition reorganization bill passed," and that subsequently The Voice, a Methodist publication, printed a statement quoting Copeland as saying that he would "vote for cloture resolution and for the bill."

"The senator is now annoyed," Wilson said, "because somebody has dragged out that copy of The Voice two years old, and things did not turn out the democratic convention as he expected, and he is a little abnormally sensitive, especially in view of the present situation in Tammany Hall."

Heads Hostess Committee

Neither Lenroot Nor Wilbur, However, Come up for Vote on Floor.

Washington, April 29.—(P)—Senate approval was given late today to several of President Hoover's recent nominations, including the four additional judges for New York city.

Favorable reports had been ordered earlier by the judiciary committee on the nominations of Curtis D. Wilbur, former secretary of the navy, to be a judge in the ninth circuit court, and of Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, to be a member of the court of customs appeals.

Lenroot's nomination was contested and the vote in committee was 11 to 4. A contest is expected against the former Wisconsin senator on the floor also, but no effort was made today to get either his or Wilbur's nomination up for consideration in the senate.

Tomorrow the interstate commerce committee will meet to reconsider the nominations of O. B. Colquitt, former Texas governor, to be a member of the railway board of mediation, and of Charles Mack, Saltzman, of Iowa, to be a member of the radio commission.

The committee also will take up tomorrow today's nomination of William D. L. Starbuck, of Connecticut, to the other vacancy on the radio commission.

Chairman Coudens, the new chairman of the committee, decided to reconsider Saltzman's nomination also because of the lack of quorum of the committee when he and Colquitt were previously approved.

EXILED LEON TROTSKY SEES GLOOM FOR WORLD

Predicts World Will Soon Be Again Drenched in War.

Constantinople, April 29.—(P)—Within the frail walls of a tiny white house on the outskirts of Constantinople paces the man whom not so long ago the world seemed too small to contain. Leon Trotsky, exiled Bolshevik chief, partner of Lenin, has lost another fight, has heard the German door he longed to enter slammed in his face, and has nothing left for it but to settle down in his present obscure and hated corner.

Time may incite in the fiery, embittered Bolshevik that oriental resignation which permeates the land of his exile, and the world may yet have the picture of a Trotsky, quietly dreaming of the past over a quietly melancholy bubble-bubble and innuendo of thick Turkish coffee. But the present finds him furiously unresigned. Hurling invectives at Stalin, who threw him out of Russia, and the German that turned him down, he stares from his narrow window not at the mansion of the Egyptian princess across the way from his little house, nor at the Turkish beer factory round the corner, nor at the barren, monotonous Thracian hills beyond, but upon a world grown wild and terrible.

He sees—he has told his interviewers as much—a world drenched again in war, a war originating in Anglo-American rivalries, and he gives modern civilization not more than ten years before that war will sweep into the dustbin of dead epochs. Bitterly he sees Stalin as traitor to the principles of Lenin, principles from which he vows that he himself has not swerved and will never swerve a hair's breadth, even though his life hangs by that hair. With bitterness that almost blinds him, he sees Germany traitor to "democracy's right of say," as his own phrase puts it, and raps out to the press of the world his biting sarcasm. "Germany, it appears, did not find me in a sufficient dying condition to grant me admission. The point at stake, apparently, was not the right of asylum, but the right of burial."

That Germany's decision to debar him was influenced by Moscow is clearly his opinion. Moscow wishes him to remain in Constantinople for much the same reasons that he himself wishes to be almost anywhere else. Trotsky has informed his Turkish hosts in no mincing terms that he is an unwilling guest. He might be a Robinson Crusoe minus even man Friday on a desert isle, for all the companionship, politically speaking, that exists for him here. Turkey, adamantly opposed to the slightest stirring of communist propaganda within her borders, will never allow Constantinople to become a mecca for Pilgrim Trotskyists, and none exist on the spot. Intellectually as well as politically, the exile is stranded here because of his ignorance of the Turkish language and his imperfect knowledge of French, Turkey's foster-mother tongue. He has neither the command of the language nor the coterie that made Germany his preferred place of exile.

New York, April 29.—(United News)—Confronted with the ailing problem of how to make his second annual international dance derby in Madison Square Garden even sillier than the first one—which there and prospered for reasons other than its inevitability in the comic scheme—Professor Milton D. Crandall today bit upon what he would call an idea.

This idea proves once and for all that when the roll of geniuses is inscribed, lo, Professor Crandall's name will lead all the rest.

Professor Crandall's second annual polka plot is going to be a merger of the best features of two great sports—flagpole sitting and marathon dancing. When Bossy Gillies or some other eminent statesman fires the starting gun in the Garden on May 11, up there on top of his 60-foot pole, competing for glory with the lowly hoofters, will be none other than "Shipwreck" Kelly, who is to flagpole-sit what Devereaux Milburn is to polo.

"Shipwreck" has already been fired with enthusiasm by the whalelike proportions of the idea, and has fallen for it hard. After all, there are no more words on top of office buildings for him to conquer. He has outstayed every competitor in the open air.

If he can only succeed in outstaying the Crandall mazurka marathoners, what a feather in the Kelly cap!

New Rules Offered.

Certain new rules have been introduced into the 1929 dance derby, which seem to be intended to make it harder. Professor Crandall has borrowed six-day bicycle race ideas. There will be sprints three times a day for cash prizes offered by the Roman senators in the boxes. These sprints, in the form of walking on the spot, mashing-around or whatever else happens to strike the fancy of the spectators, will occur daily at 3 p. m., 10 p. m. and at which 2 m. at which hours there are the greatest number of moneyed unemployed drifting around New York making a dime out of Commissioner Whalen's traffic dream.

The sprints are to roll up points for the dancers and the points, as well as the elapsed time, are to count on the winning of the grand and only prize, which is $2500. Since copp teams, most of them winners of dance marathons in other cities, are going to compete, there is bound to be more or less dancing which will be set down by the dancers under the head of "experience—music and medical attention free."

Woolly Enter Sprints.

But "Shipwreck" Kelly will not be forced to enter the sprints. All he will do is stand—at his lordly height of 60 feet—and muse upon the odd manifestations of human nature in distress shuffling along below him. After several weeks he may arrive at some interesting conclusions. And even if he doesn't he will have the consolation of knowing that he, "Shipwreck" Kelly, was the first flagpole sitter in the history of the world to place flagpole sitting on a competitive basis with marathon dancing.

BRIDE AND MATE ARE FOUND DEAD
IN KITCHENETTE

New York, April 29.—(P)—The bodies of a man and woman were found today in a kitchenette of a three-room mid-town apartment. Both deaths apparently were the result of violence. Police identified the couple as Homer Carruthers, 28, customers' man in a brokerage house, and his bride of a few weeks, Olga, 22.

The faces of both Carruthers and his young wife were battered and blood-smeared but, pending an examination, the cause of the deaths was not definitely defined by the police. They appeared to have been dead several days.

A tenant in an adjoining apartment told the police he heard a violent argument in the Carruthers' suite Thursday night, followed by a heavy crash. No response has been made to service calls since then.

The apartment had been taken by Carruthers on April 10, when he and his wife had returned from their honeymoon, according to his statements to attendants in the house.

Mrs. Carruthers' body, attired in a night dress, was lying on the floor of the kitchenette. Her husband's body, fully dressed except for his coat and vest was lying across hers.

The bodies were discovered when an ice-man became suspicious after repeated ringings of the bell over a period of several days failed to get a response.

at Geneva.

Geneva, April 29.—(P)—Republican Germany and communist Russia are dissatisfied with the work of the preparatory disarmament commission. No one can forecast what the nations may do in reducing the scale of their armaments at a later international conference, but neither Germany nor the soviet are getting satisfaction as regards construction of the draft treaty which will be submitted as a basis for work of any subsequent international conference.

Count von Bernstorff, who is fighting the German battle for disarmament of nations victorious in the World War, is showing signs of strain and of defeat.

In short, sarcastic phrases he gave evidence at today's session of the disarmament conference of Germany's chagrin and profound disappointment over three developments of the work here.

The first was the delegates' decision last week not to limit trained reserves. The second was the rejection today of the Chinese project to abolish conscription and the third was a subsequent decree of the delegates not to talk of reducing armies but only of limiting them.

Flushed and beaten, Count von Bernstorff rebelled against what is to Germany a triple defeat. Germany insists that the nations victorious in the great war have promised to reduce their armaments. She emphasized the fact that, being denied the right of conscript by the terms of the Versailles treaty and by the same token the right to possess trained army reserves, she cannot find satisfaction in the commission's decision to sanction compulsory military service and do nothing to limit trained reserves.

When the commission today refused to substitute the word "reduction" for the word "limitation" as applied to armed forces, Count von Bernstorff virtually accused the victorious nations of conspiring against disarmament.

With Germany appearing to seek an escape from restrictions imposed by the treaty of Versailles, the other delegations, with the exception of the soviet delegation, now are fighting for postponement of all questions concerning actual figures of limitation or reduction to the moment of the international conference.

These delegates are convinced that if too many things are attempted at the start, the first international disarmament conference will be doomed to disaster.

COOLIDGE HAS HEAVY DAILY WRITING GRIND

New York, April 29.—(P)—Although not a professional writer, Calvin Coolidge today was credited by Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan magazine, with a three and one-half months' writing output that might well be the envy of many of his professional contemporaries in letters.

Since January he has written his autobiography of 45,000 words, most of which already has appeared in serial form, and in addition several articles on peace and other subjects for various magazines.

In commenting on Mr. Coolidge's brought to the surface.

literary output Mr. Long said he knew of few professional writers, "and other public men" who could equal the former president's record.

His economy in words also drew praise from Mr. Long, who said: "has told in less than 45,000 words only the complete story of his life, but the complete story of our country during the dramatic years of this generation. In these days of long-winded autobiographies and biographies, that's a real achievement."

After the appearance of the concluding article of his autobiographical series, "the scenes of my childhood," in Cosmopolitan, the matter is to be arranged in chronological order and published in book form, Mr. Long said.

Parts of Body Controlling Human Growth Described; Elements Sought at Yale

Professor Tells of Work in Creation of Body at Chemical Society Meeting.

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor.

Columbus, Ohio, April 25.—(AP)—New creative work at the Yale university to find out what parts of the body controlling growth are made of was described at the opening of the American Chemical Society convention here tonight.

This control, closely related to life itself, lies in cells that compose living bodies, but not in the whole cells. The active force is in the nucleus, or central portion of the cell. The Yale work is to take these nuclei apart chemically and to learn what composes them.

Dr. Treat B. Johnson, sterling professor of chemistry at Yale, gave an illustrated lecture at the first technical session Tuesday showing the new technique to chemists gathered here from over the United States. His associates in the work are G. E. Hillbert, sterling research fellow at Yale, and Janet Evans, instructor at Mount Holyoke college.

The daring conception that it is possible to approach so closely to analyzing some phases of life came from success at Yale in finding out some of the substances that tuberculosis germs are made of. One of these things in the germs was a hitherto unknown fatty acid, discovery of which recently was announced. It causes symptoms of tuberculosis. Dr. Johnson said this discovery already has a practical value in facilitating earlier diagnosis of incipient tuberculosis and aiding in its prevention.

Makes Work Possible. He said co-operation on a national scale, embracing both industry and pure research is the main factor in making these discoveries possible.

"We cannot do it," he said, "by the old-fashioned method of growing animals in test tubes. We must go to sources where the materials for research are manufactured in bulk. Numerous great institutions co-operative in the successful development, as in the tuberculosis work, under direction of the National Tuberculosis Association."

A "new technique" for chemical synthesis has been found, Dr. Johnson said, in the exploration of the growth controlling nuclei. Synthesis is the chemists' method for making in the laboratory, or in industry, what nature makes in living things. The usual synthetic methods employ heat, reagents and catalysts, which are foreign substances introduced into the material being synthesized that caused it to separate and then to recombine into something different. The new Yale technique functions by distinguishing the balance of the atoms in molecules.

The beginnings of a school for germs at Johns Hopkins university were outlined to the division of chemical education today by Dr. N. E. Gordon, professor of chemical education.

Hindered by Poverty. He said that geniuses do not become leaders if hampered by poverty in youth, unless some other factor, either in themselves or from outside aid, gives their genius an opportunity. He said superabundant health enabled Edison to overcome poverty. Under the Johns Hopkins plan, chemical industries in each state will pay for the chemical education of one young man from that chosen competitively for ability.

A new yardstick to measure and forecast possible genius was described by Dr. Gordon. It comes from the experience of nearly 100 leading American industries and colleges. It rates college standing first, but only worth 15.5 per cent. Book ability stands last. Creative ability, intellectual honesty, observation and enthusiasm ranks high in the success factors.

Nine young men first chosen to enter Johns Hopkins under this plan next fall are: Robert D. Stiller, of Hickville, N. H.; Kenneth E. Glidden, Durham, N. H.; Willard E. Black, Maplewood, N. J.; Maurice E. Kraft, Greencastle, Ind.; John R. Ruhoff, Madison, Wis.; Robert W. Cain, Chicago, Ill.; Paul T. Sutton, Baltimore, Md.; Theodore E. Felt, Auburn, Maine; and Michael S. Ebert, Bethlehem, Pa.

NEWSPAPER SALE INVOKES PROBS BY FEDERAL BODY

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—The federal trade commission will launch an investigation tomorrow into the purchase of two Boston newspapers, the Herald and the Traveler, by the International Paper and Power Company. Five witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear at the hearing.

The inquiry was instituted as a result of a letter to the commission from Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, asking it to investigate the purchase as a phase of its study of the publicity activities of public power utilities.

The witnesses who have been summoned are: A. R. Granstein, president of the International Paper and Power Company; W. N. Huriburt, of Boston, vice president of the company; John R. Macomber, of Boston, a director; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, former president of the Boston Publishing Company, which publishes the two papers, and former editor of the Boston Herald; and James Garfield, secretary of the publishing company.

Commission counsel would not say today what course it would pursue. The sale of the two newspapers also is being investigated by a committee of the Massachusetts legislature.

French Forest Fire On Battle Field Explodes Shells

Mulhouse, France, April 25.—(AP)—The noise of bursting shells buried during the war in the old battlefield of Hartmanns-Willerkopf has masked the progress of a great forest fire which has already destroyed vegetation over nearly a thousand acres. Despite the efforts of the village fire departments it was still spreading today. So far no casualties have been reported.

Benton, of Atlanta, was re-elected president of the Georgia State Association of Optometrists, which concluded its twenty-fifth annual convention with a banquet at the Henry Grady hotel Monday night. Other officers elected were Dr. H. J. Godin, of Augusta, vice president, and F. C. Wilson, Valdosta, secretary and treasurer. Members named on the executive committee were Dr. C. Kittrell, Dublin, chairman; Dr. W. R. Wilson, Douglas, Dr. J. J. Hogue, Albany; Dr. E. C. Clason, Columbus; and Dr. J. H. Sprattling, Macon.

Other speakers at the session were Dr. Elsie Thomas and Dr. C. D. Benton, professor of psychology, Emory university.

The feature of the morning session was an address by Dr. Ralph Byrnes, executive dean of the Atlanta Southern Dental college, who spoke on "Focal Infections in Relation to the Eye." Dr. G. O. Perkins, well-known oculist, also spoke on "Legislative Action on the Proposed Change of the Optometry Law."

NORTH CAROLINA LOSES IN RAILROAD SUIT

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—North Carolina was refused by the supreme court today a review of the decision of the lower federal courts denying it permission to intervene in a suit brought today by the Southern railway company to set aside the appointment of a receiver for the Atlantic and Yadkin railroad operating between Mount Airy and Sanford, N. C.

The Southern railway asked the appointment of a receiver, claiming that the Atlantic and Yadkin railroad owed it approximately $771,000 for money advanced to pay its indebtedness, taxes and current liabilities.

Charging that the Southern violated the state charter to the Atlantic and Yadkin railroad had obtained control of it, had allowed it to roll stock, allowing its roadbed to fall into decay and had deprived it of terminal facilities at Greensboro, N. C., the Southern sought to prevent the Southern from buying in the property at a receivership sale.

Charging that the state was also seeking to prevent what it claimed was the dismemberment of the Cape Fear and Yadkin valley railroad, through the sale in 1890 to the Atlantic Coast Line of that part of its line between Sanford and Wilmington, the Southern railway opposed a review of the present controversy by the supreme court. It asserted that the state courts had decided against North Carolina by refusing to set aside the sale to the Atlantic Coast Line and declining to cancel the charter of the Atlantic and Yadkin railway. Under these circumstances it insisted that the state had no right to interfere in the receivership proceedings in the federal courts.

2,000 COTTON SEED SENT BY BEAVERS TO FELLOW CHIEF

He wanted two dozen cotton seed, but in accordance with traditional Georgia generosity he was sent 2,000. And the service was not rendered by the state department of agriculture, the logical agency for such an act, but rather by Atlanta's own chief of police—James L. Beavers.

Chief Beavers Monday morning received the request from S. M. McMullen, police head in Winfield, Pa., and several hours later the cotton seed desired and an additional 1,976 were on the way to the Quaker state.

In his letter to Chief Beavers, McMullen said: "I would like to have a little cotton seed. We are not in the cotton country here, but I would like to plant about two dozen seed to see what they will do. It is not too much trouble to get them, send a few in a letter."

PLANK IMBEDDED IN TREE GIVEN CAPITOL MUSEUM

One of nature's freaks which imbedded an eight-inch pine plank in a part of a white oak tree was displayed in the office of Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, in whose office a section of the tree was displayed Monday.

Mr. Talmadge said the specimen was given him by Dr. J. W. Neal, of Scotland, Telfair county, and that Dr. Neal found the freak on his old home place in Harte county. Dr. Neal said, according to Mr. Talmadge, that 47 years ago he put the plank in the fork of a small tree. On a recent visit to his old home he recalled the plank and when he looked found the tree had grown around it. He sawed out a section of the tree some time ago, since which the small log has shrunk somewhat in length and ends of the board, which was seasoned lumber, project slightly.

The specimen will be presented to the state and put in the capitol museum.

WOMAN, CONVICTED OF MISUSING MAIL, GIVEN $300 FINE

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, convicted for sending obscene matter through the mails, was fined $300 by Judge Warren E. Burrows in Federal court in Brooklyn. She was paroled in custody of her attorney until Thursday, pending the filing of an appeal and posting of bail.

The conviction last week of Mrs. Dennett, who could have been fined $10,000 and sentenced to five years imprisonment, was based on distribution of her pamphlet "The Sex Side of Life," which she said she wrote 14 years ago for the guidance of her two sons. She is 53 years old.

The pamphlet had been distributed for more than 10 years by the Y. M. C. A., churches and social organizations, and had the endorsement of many educators, editors and social workers; the complaint against it, which resulted in the conviction, was made by a resident of Groveton, Va.

It is estimated that 20,000 people lost their lives as a result of the bitter cold in Europe this past winter.

Absent-Minded Burglar Forgets To Take His Loot

LEAVES GEMS IN POCKET OF DISCARDED COAT

Chicago, April 25.—(AP)—The absent-minded burglar who robbed Mrs. Arthur Kruger's flat yesterday, but forgot to take his loot away, was caught when he donned Kruger's natty garment. Police arrived. Kruger spoke of the jewels and the topcoat. "And look what he left me," Kruger said, tossing out a megal overcoat which the robber had discarded when he donned Kruger's natty garment. "Not such a bad trade," said the policeman as from a pocket of the old coat into which the thief had thrust them, he removed the missing jewelry.

VANDERBURG DENIES MURDERING FAMILY

Gastonia, N. C., April 25.—(AP)—Calmly and without show of emotion, Jacob Vanderburg, charged with the murder of five members of his family, this morning denied he was guilty of the crimes for which he is on trial.

To each of the questions by J. M. Hoyle, defense attorney, in which he was asked if he was guilty of murdering his father, his mother, his two sisters and his brother, the 17-year-old defendant replied "no."

He was called to the witness stand at 10:38 a. m. and immediately began a recital of facts surrounding the tragedy in which the charred bodies of the five members of his family were found in the ruins of the burned home.

He testified that when he came out of the burning house, after having called to the others, he saw an automobile, without lights and with a man standing on the running board, headed toward Gastonia.

He described his fright at being awakened by the stifling smoke and feeling his way downstairs.

He was not sure, he said, that when he felt in his mother's bed, the wet substance he felt was her hair. Under questioning he declared there had been a fuzzy blanket on the bed and that it might have been what he felt.

There were times, he testified, when part of the family slept in the kitchen on pallets but could not say if this was the case on the night of the killing.

Among his other statements was one that he had pulled a tooth the night of December 27, just before going to bed, and that it had bled some.

FLOODS ARE RECEDING IN MIDWEST STATES

River Continues To Rise Near Cairo, Ill.; Conditions Not Serious.

St. Louis, April 25.—(AP)—There was a general recession of flood waters along rivers throughout the middle west today, after nearly two weeks of anxiety, during which the Mississippi approached and in some places passed the high stages of the 1927 flood.

The only place where the Mississippi was still rising tonight was in the region below St. Louis to Cairo, Ill., and the weather bureau did not regard this inundation as being serious, although considerable farm land was being flooded in the vicinity of Grand Tower, where a levee broke Saturday.

With the water receding from thousands of acres of farm lands inundated along the Mississippi from Keokuk, Iowa, to below St. Louis, farmers were beginning to take stock of the damage. No estimates were made, but at no place was the loss believed to be heavy.

The Mississippi had fallen a foot here today and was expected to drop another foot and one-half in the next 24 hours. The river still inundated part of the levee, but had fallen back from the lower industrial district.

The water had receded from the business and most of the industrial district of Hannibal, Mo., tonight and the Burlington railroad forced to suspend operations there during the flood, was preparing to reopen its lines.

CRIME WAVE LAID TO VARIED CAUSES BY DRY SPEAKER

Marion, Ind., April 25.—(United News)—Superintendent E. S. Shumaker, of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, addressing a law-enforcement rally here, charged that widespread crime in the United States was due to molly-coddling of criminals, political dependency of police and the foreign complex of citizens.

"There are many criminal lawyers who are as crooked as their law-breaking clients," Shumaker said. He named Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, as a leading type to which he referred.

He charged that several leading newspapers of the country were attempting to undermine the popularity of the prohibition act.

Texture

A WOMAN instinctively loves things of pleasing texture—a shawl or a table cloth for its weave—or bread for the texture it possesses. A pleasing texture is one of the desirable qualities of Colonial Bread. It is exactly right. A woman appreciates such a texture because the bread cuts as she wants it—without crumbling even though the slices be thin. Bread's texture depends on proper fermentation or "ripening" of the dough. And dough can be fermented with certainty, day after day, only in a bakery having a properly built and equipped dough-room.

A DEFINITE temperature and definite humidity are necessary for our bread doughs and these conditions are absolutely controlled in a dough room with cork insulated walls and double windows. MITCHELL HAS HOOVER BACKING, BELIEVED Demand for DeGroot Resignation Supported by President, Is Felt.

Washington, April 29.—High administration officials are of the opinion that President Hoover will support Attorney-General Mitchell in demanding the resignation of William DeGroot as federal attorney for the eastern New York district.

They said today that the president had given the attorney-general full authority to strengthen the enforcement agencies over the country and that the demand for DeGroot's resignation resulted from the survey being made of all district attorneys' offices in the country.

While the attorney-general has no authority to force the resignation of the New York prosecutor, it was stated that the president had the authority to remove him by the simple expedient of nominating his successor. President Wilson did in the now celebrated Oregon postmaster case which was carried to the United States supreme court. That tribunal held that the chief executive had ample authority to remove appointive officials.

DeGroot is the first district attorney whose resignation has been requested to refuse to comply with the request. Three others—one in Philadelphia, one in Jacksonville and one in Mississippi—have resigned and their successors soon will be named. The survey under the direction of the attorney-general is progressing rapidly and it was stated that some other prosecutors might be asked to retire.

A. C. L. PRESIDENT FETTERED BY SAVANNAH BOARD OF TRADE

Savannah, Ga., April 29.—(AP)—Savannah's board of trade today played host to George B. Elliott, president of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, at one of the largest attended luncheons held here. Presented also at the same time were President Albert Earl Clift, of the Central of Georgia railroad and President B. L. Buzz, of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad. President Elliott was the chief speaker.

Tonight President Elliott was guest of honor of William Murphy, president of the Citizens & Southern National bank, at dinner at the Oglethorpe Club, to which were invited many of Savannah's leading men of finance, business and varied professions. The head of the Coast Line took a trip about the harbor this morning aboard the government yacht Isonde, viewing the facilities of the port.

HERE ARE LARGE FIELDS OF BITUMINOUS ("SOFT") COAL IN MANY PARTS OF THE WORLD, BUT ANTHRACITE ("HARD COAL") IS MINED ONLY IN THE UNITED STATES. THE ANTHRACITE FIELDS LIE IN A THIN STRIP IN EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA. THERE IS A MUCH SMALLER FIELD IN RHODE ISLAND.

THE ANTHRACITE FIELDS WERE FIRST DISCOVERED BECAUSE THEY LIE EAST OF THE VAST "SOFT" COAL REGION. ANTHRACITE WAS FOUND IN RHODE ISLAND IN 1760, BUT LITTLE IMPORTANCE WAS ATTACHED TO THE DISCOVERY. IN 1791 A MAN HUNTING IN THE LEHIGH VALLEY NEAR MAUCH CHUNK, PENNSYLVANIA, NOTICED SOME STRANGE BLACK "STONES" AMONG THE ROCKS.

The Story of American Industry. The Discovery of the Anthracite Coal Fields.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WE PUT SOME OF THE "STONES" IN HIS POCKET, AND RETURNING HOME SHOWED THEM TO HIS NEIGHBORS. THE "STONES" PROVED TO BE COALS. THE REPORT OF THIS DISCOVERY SPREAD, AND THE NEXT YEAR SEVERAL CITIZENS OF PHILADELPHIA FORMED A COMPANY AND BEGAN MINING COAL AT MAUCH CHUNK.

AT FIRST THE VENTURE SEEMED DOOMED TO FAILURE. FEW PEOPLE WERE WILLING TO BUY BLACK "STONES" FOR FUEL. THE FIRST USERS OF ANTHRACITE DID NOT KNOW HOW TO MAKE IT BURN PROPERLY, AS THE HEATING DEVICES OF THAT DAY WERE ADAPTED TO BURNING EITHER WOOD OR "SOFT" COAL.

IRISH HORSE TRADERS HOLD FUNERAL RITES

Annual Joint Services Held at Immaculate Conception Church.

More than 300 members of the families making up that picturesque group, the Irish horse traders, gathered Monday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception as annual burial rites were conducted for three members who died during the past year.

Shortly after the founding of the group more than 100 years ago it became a practice for these roving traders to have a common meeting place and a common yearly date upon which all members would be buried. In accordance with this practice these traders gather here on April 28 each year, or, as was the case this year, on the following day if the 28th falls on Sunday.

Mrs. Bridget Carroll, Mrs. Bridget Nelson Riley and Mrs. Pat O'Hara were the ones for whom the services were held this year. Mrs. Carroll, 78, died last September in Lumber City; Mrs. Riley, 24, died last October, in Waco, Texas, and Mrs. O'Hara, 32, died in December, at Marietta. The bodies were brought here immediately after the deaths.

Formerly dealing in horseflesh and calling their name from this practice the traders now find it to be more in demand and their trading in these animals takes them during the winter months all over the south.

PUBLIC WORKS BODY PLANS OPEN MEETINGS

Meetings of the public works committee of the Fulton county commission, at which the public will be invited to offer suggestions as to legislation contemplated by the commissions for submission to the general assembly in June, are planned, it was announced Monday by Walter B. Stewart, chairman of the public works committee, at a special session of the board.

Mr. Stewart said that the committee wants the ideas of the citizens of Fulton county upon matters of legislation affecting such matters of general public interest as sewers, fire protection, water supply, etc. The question of holding the meetings of the committee will come up at the regular board meeting on Wednesday, it was said.

Decision to hold present funds to meet current expenses and charitable institution appropriations, and to meet warrants in the order of their dates as other funds come in, after operating expenses are cared for, was made Monday by the board in directing Miss Mable Abbott McNeil, county treasurer, to adopt this policy. Approximately $320,000 is left from the loan of $1,000,000 obtained several days ago by the board, and the New York firm from which the $1,000,000 loan was obtained has a 30-day option to furnish an additional $250,000, it was said.

JAZZ IS PLAYED BADLY IN EUROPE, DIRECTOR SAYS

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Jazz is the only American music known in Europe, and even that is played very badly, said Sandor Harnati, director of the Omaha Symphony orchestra, who returned with his wife today on the liner Lagonia. For six weeks he was guest conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic and the Paris Symphony orchestras.

The work of American serious composers is entirely unknown in Europe, he said. Since jazz is considered typical American music, he added, the least Americans can do is to serve a committee of jazz musicians to Europe to teach the continent how to play it so that Europe may see jazz at its best light.

PLEA TO SUSPEND RATE REDUCTION DENIED BY U. S.

Richmond, Va., April 29.—(AP)—In an order signed today the application of the six trunk line railroads for a temporary stay or suspension of the interstate commerce commission's order reducing refrigeration charges of fruits, vegetables and other perishable products from the south was denied by the special United States court in equity which heard the plea here April 28.

The complainants were: Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore and Ohio, Florida East Coast, Seaboard Air Line, Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac and the Pennsylvania. They contended that some carrying charges should be allowed for the use in refrigerators cars. Counsel for fruit and vegetable shippers contended that the item was an auxiliary service contained in the established rate.

Numerous counsel appeared in the case when it was argued more than four hours here before Circuit Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte, N. C. District Judge D. Lawrence Granger, of Norfolk, and Circuit Judge Morris A. Soper, of Baltimore.

OFFICER CHARGES MOTHER OF WIFE WITH KIDNAPING

Norfolk, Va., April 29.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Romuald P. P. Mecklewski, attached to the Hampton Roads naval operating base here, Saturday swore out a warrant charging Mrs. A. W. Lee, of Norfolk, his mother-in-law, with kidnaping his two children. Police here were told that Mrs. Lee was en route to Reno, Nev., the present residence of Commander Mecklewski's wife, who, he said, was there for the purpose of obtaining a divorce. It was believed she going there to deliver the two children to Mrs. Mecklewski.

Mrs. Lee, Norfolk authorities have been notified, was arrested today at LaSalle, Col., and was removed from the train on which she was traveling with the two children. Commander Mecklewski was Saturday in the Norfolk courts granted a divorce from his wife. He presented depositions alleging that she had set up residence in Reno for the purpose of bringing divorce proceedings there. Commander Mecklewski was granted custody of the two children.

He testified in the depositions taken in court here that he had tried to persuade his wife not to go to Reno for a divorce.

THOMASTON MAN DIES IN ATTEMPT TO CATCH TRAIN

Forsyth, Ga., April 29.—(Special).—Identification of the man found dead this morning near the Central of Georgia railway crossing has been established as W. Stokely Bartlett, 35, automobile mechanic, of Thomaston. Mrs. Bartlett, wife of the dead man, identified the body. Relatives of Bartlett brought him to Forsyth yesterday as part of a trip to Macon, and were to return for him to Forsyth today. It is believed the man tried to catch a northbound train and fell to his death.

Work Starts on Plan To Strengthen Wall At Tech High School

Boring tests to determine the depth of marsh ground under the crumbling wall at the Tech High school will be begun today with a view to strengthening the wall and removing all danger of its collapse. A representative of the Robert Hunt Company, of Chicago, arrived here Monday and at once proceeded to examination of the wall following which he advised William C. Slare, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the board of education, that boring operations would start today. It is expected that by the end of the week it will be known just how much reconstruction work will be necessary to render the building absolutely safe.

Modern ELECTRIC COOKERY At THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION'S COOKING and HOME-MAKING SCHOOL

IT IS significant of the trend of present-day ideas that electric ranges were unhesitatingly selected for use in this important educative event. Miss DeBoth will use electric ranges in preparing the interesting menus she has planned for the benefit of those who attend the classes Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and Friday evening at the Erlanger Theatre.

This cooking and Home-Making School is of such importance, and the facilities provided for the thousands who will attend are so unusual, that it behooves you and your friends to plan on being present. You will be particularly interested in seeing these electric ranges in use.

Simple to Operate--

Simplicity is the keynote of electric cookery—the perfect simplicity of operation that can only be achieved with electric equipment. Instead of standing for hours over a hot stove, you simply place your dinner in the oven, set the temperature control and time clock—and forget about cooking! When dinner time comes, you remove your meat, vegetables, and other dishes, and serve! No need to spend more than an hour or so a day in the kitchen. No worrying about foods burning! You have a perfect, automatic cook ... an electric range ... working for you, taking the worry and discomfort of cooking away.

For the Modern Home--A Modern ELECTRIC RANGE

You will want to see these ranges in use, for sooner or later you will own one. Right now is the time, therefore, to find out all you can about them. It is only a question of time until you, too, join the ranks of thousands of owners—and know a freedom from drudgery that you can scarcely imagine possible! Every woman hopes some day to have a modern home, complete with labor-saving devices—and that means, of course, an electric range. You can have the comfort, convenience and satisfaction an electric range brings TODAY—if you wish.
